Another new slave market thread in GE&T, made by yet another brand new nations who's only posts are the slave market thread. Someone is doing this to try to troll, I swear. There's just way too many slave RPs in such a short amount of time.

The thing is it's bad enough to severely annoy us but not severe enough to lobby for a mod ban of those threads.

As I've said before, the mods are never going to ban a certain topic of thread so long as they don't fall foul of the rules.

I'm not offended enough by the slave threads to want them banned outright, they're just annoying to see constantly, every newer nation doing it. I have a feeling this is going to be the annoying summerposter trend this year.

I swear you have four different roleplay threads about your slave trade going on at the same time right now. It gets a bit repetitive when it's all just "we object/accept this as legal and we will do x about it"

I would not want to be in the shoes of a pacifist nation: it would go through all the threads of arms dealers to say: "No, we are against weapons! We condemn this activity!"

Honestly I find that funny, really. Most pacifist nations are so idealist that somehow the idea of people being cruel or "evil" in any sense is impossible to them.

And then there's me who is almost the complete opposite, thinking "ah, yes, now how to make my leader even more of a terrible person?" while favoring more realistic views about how cruel the average person could be if they were allowed to do anything they'd ever want.

Yep, I've seen the increase in those slave markets, and I immediately thought that maybe you're right, this is just a troll attempt by racist people.

OK you know what, I'm just gonna say it.

Yall gotta stop being bothered by this shit.

I just checked GE&T and there's a total of eight slave-related storefronts on the first three pages of GE&T out of a grand total of seventy-five threads.

That's literally it.

And y'all have been acting like GE&T has become overloaded with nothing but slave threads.

Like yeah they're tiresome and uncreative but there's an easy solution to this problem: ignore them. That's all you gotta do. I don't care about military GE&T threads but I don't constantly complain about people making military storefronts, I just don't post in them and don't pay attention to them.

It's not that hard.

Stupid slave threads pissing people off is a pretty good laugh though ngl

Like clearly zero effort behind them, yet you have people losing it over them. Gets lots of "you will take me seriously" posts from people that are just cringe gold or simply unintentionally hilarious. "You'll feel the wrath of the WA!!!" Oh no, very scurry!!!!

People can't leave well enough alone so these slave threads will be around as long as they get these reactions

It's an easy way to play the villain.

I miss when Allanea would just kick down the doors and state, on no uncertain terms, "you will end this or you will be subjected to genocide." It kept things more interesting than the simple creepy purchases and half-hearted condemnations at least, even if a lot of the subsequent threads following the war were often milsci snooze fests of the sort that I used to love.

I think it's fair enough not to want to RP with said nations, especially when it comes to pony based ones, because RPing with one side who has MLP-like lore and one that doesn't can be jarring for both parties I think. Even with different magic systems and different lore it can be difficult, and sometimes a universe has internal consistency with itself but gets blown out of proportion when meeting another universe (i.e. "all my characters have magic powers and yours dont so they can defeat them easily" or stuff along those lines). Sometimes as well, something just doesn't fit the tone of something else. That being said, I don't think anyone should be shitting on anyone else for having mlp or furry or fantasy based nations.
