If it is just a prank, then it could be considered as vandalism and arson, which is punishable with time in prison.
If they intended to specifically harass someone, they could also be charged with harassment, which is punishable with a fine.
If they intended to do harm with it, then they could also be charged with assault or even first degree murder, which could land them with lifetime in prison.

All NS Stats are canon.

Oh, and I guess you can make up anything else about this nation, like geography and such, based on your own imagination. I don't really plan on writing lore on this nation, at least for now.

Per se, not a crime. The victim can sue the business and the court can force the service/product to be provided anyways.

Murder is either a life sentence or death penalty depending on severity.
Racism and homophobia aren't illegal, but highly frowned upon and condemned.

Blasphemy isn't illegal. Murdering 5 judges is, and could land you a very long stint in prison indeed.

However, depending on your motives and your method, you might get lost in the system somewhere... just wind up disappearing off the ledgers, somehow. Given a new name, a tarot card, and some assignments to do. Call this work "altered rehabilitation," if you will. You will, of course, be let back into ordinary society, and given a very generous stipend during your time here.

It depends.

If it was accidental, you'll be given a fine roughly proportional to the scale of the damage, with the additional conditions of the fine being less if you reported the accidental fire, and more so if it happened to be a protected reserve.

If you did it intentionally, however, that would likely be grounds for at least 1 year in prison, and potentially as high as Prison Until Parole, which is the Trivegal equivalent to a life sentence.

Not a crime, unless it can be proven to be directly responsible for death or violence. Violence would result in year long corrective therapy and 20% the normal payment of any property damage. Death would result in five year maximum in a correctional facility and full compensation to the affected families.

Obstruction of justice.

Obstruction of Justice in the Commonwealth is a very serious matter as it is a knowingly, willful and material hindrance of just due process or the proper carrying out of justice either factually or by threat or demand, to the detriment of a right, just and true verdict.

>>> Fined 1-5 years worth of person's wage or salary to be garnished at no more than 20% for the rest of one's life or until paid in full.

>>> Punished up to the full amount of the penalty for the crime or crimes they were obstructing should conviction occur (and it is not their crime they are obstructing). If it is their crime they are obstructing, the full amount of the penalty is usually rewarded.

>>> Up to 10 years hard labor in addition to former sentence. Void if former penalty merits the death penalty.

Knowingly withholding exculpatory evidence for decades that could have freed a person from serving a life sentence?
