Owning 4 miniguns alone is already a capital offense. If one of our drones detects the minigun, it will directly eliminate the perpetrator. If Homeland Security can apprehend the perpetrator, he will be sent to the Factory where he will spend the rest of his very short life as a forced laborer for the good of mankind.

The right to protest is key in Texas, but if it gets violent, the law may get involved. You could be eligible fines, mainly for property damages, battery and assault, and starting a riot.

Assaulting everyone you meet like a madman, paralyzing and incapacitating innocents, but not killing them.

TEXAS - goodbye, everyone :)

While alcohol consumption is legal in Texas, non-medical crack and cocaine is illegal here. You'd be fined up to $1,000 and be forced to go to rehab.

If atleast one of the people involved is not part of a certain category of alien species that, for whatever reasons, is biologically radiated into cannibalism, the killer will be accused of murder and he will spend 6 to 10 years either in a prison or in a mental institution (depending on the gravity of the situation)

20 years hard labor (most people do not survive 20 years of hard labor) to death penalty (lethal injection). Most capital convicts are executed by firing squad (if an honorable but morally stupid act results in a capitol crime), or hanging (if just morally stupid). Bureaucrats are typically executed by defenestration. But the usual means for infamous crimes such as that mentioned is to be taken to a pet shelter and lethally injected like an animal.

Gluing one's head to the railroad tracks of a major line (costing hours of lost time and billions of euros/dollars if the trains stop) in order to protest some some supposed impending doom that person has come to believe?
