Depends on who they are and how much damage they do. For most people, death. No questions asked. But connected families will get a pass if the damage is easily mitigated.

Drinking that disgusting haram toxin 'alcohol'

When Western Sahara and Mauritania merge, and build an orichalcum-gilded "Dubai of the Atlantic" with ring canals on top of the Richat Structure in the Sahara because a wealthy oil magnate from the West Sahara claimed to have a vision from Allah that he was the heir to the line of the "Sultan of Atlantis" and was to re-build the old. Though many argue that it's all propaganda, many say the blooming Richat City with its fiery copper-lined levees and locks is a miracle... (Factbooks Coming)

'Dissident propaganda does not exist during peacetime. Unless a work is advocating for violent crimes such as murder, in which case it could be classified as a threat of violence or an act to incite violence, it would be legal. During wartime, works supporting New England's enemies will be destroyed and their authors first warned, then fined, then imprisoned for the duration of the war.

Destroying a national symbol (ie: crowns, thrones, original copies of constitutions, ceremonial presidential sash, etc etc etc.)

Depends. Apostasy from Islam will bring stoning. People of the Book are given allowances, for it is the will of Allah that they be relieved of their confusion and come to understanding of the Unity of God. Pagan tourists visiting the sights of Richat City are given allowances, as the wealth they bring glorifies Allah. In witnessing Allah's glory manifest in our capital, they may come to know Him. But to shirk, to know the truth and turn from it--death by stoning.
