The Catgirl Republic on Mars laughs with popcorn in their mouths as they watch puny humans war and destroy eachother on Earth. Their growing republic along the south pole of Mars continues to grow as they expand further with the construction of underground facilities where they grow food but also new catgirl clones to keep the population growing.

The Martian Catgirls meow positively in response to the transmission. They agree to normalize relations. Catgirl leaders hope that diplomacy with some of the nations on Earth will help them to defend themselves from their surrounding Martian neighbors—the ones who experimented on them. A Catgirl representative is sent to Earth.

53,400 people are instantly vaporized. Many more succumb to injuries and fallout. The Government orders all citizens that are not abroad to retreat into public fallout shelters. Soldiers in the Americas lose contact and take refuge on the Californian Channel Islands. Despite all this, New Nevada agrees to get rid of its current nuclear arsenal.... by dropping it on Nuclearus Byzantium

An underwater volcano erupts in the south of the Pacific, sending tsunamis to the west coast of the Americas and towards Japan, as well as flooding many pacific islands. The capuchin's island is fine, as he has already erected large seawalls around the island.

The capuchin also offers emergency aid to any nations that may need it.
