Same as with everything else, if it sounds good it's good, lyrics are not necessity.

I like Taraxis because it's rather....different. I'm not really sure it counts as metal. Except the last part of it. I guess Pulse isn't quite as metal as Mammoth either.

I think Mammoth is the Pelican's fans favorite, since it seems to be the one that has the most views, of the ones I've looked at so far anyway.

Tryin' 'em out on YouTube before I look into any albums. That track is just the first on the 'most played' list on YouTube :p

Pausing the list and checking out Russian Circles - Melee (as per the first link above :-)

I have all their stuff on a Spotify playlist (or what they have on Spotify, anyway). Same with Russian Circles. Still going through YouTube ones to add to favorites, though.

Pelican - The Creeper

I definitely dig them. Gettin' a acoustic/electric delivered tomorrow, and these guys are seriously making me want to get an amp just to fuck around with instrumental metal stuff again. A few years ago (when I had a working electric guitar and amp...) I used to just fuck around and jam out similarly to this. No drums or bass, but I still liked it. Don't know why I never sought out professional music in the same vein. Once again, many thanks :)
