The "everything is perfect" EU-style centre-left liberal MT democracies where nothing goes wrong, all cultures and religions live in peace and harmony, they've got a fantastic environment, stellar public services, taxpayer funded healthcare, perfect relationships with the rest of the world, a fair and honest electoral cycle (where no right-of-centre party ever wins) - all with less than 30% taxation.

I'm not annoyed at them because of their political leanings, or because they're MT democracies, but because they're so boring.

Utopia is kind of a cliché, I feel.

Granted, I respect the people that want to RP a utopian nation. I'd like to live in a lot of them, if they existed. It's kind of neat to read how everything worked out great in the world(s) they build.

However, I like to roleplay the bad guys - so I invented a corrupt utopia, propped up by an utterly horrifying dystopia. The Disorder is a literal violence-reactor, hell-bent on destroying most/all life in the cosmos. Their shared ideology supports this as morally right. They believe that the universe works better when someone goes around hunting & destroying intelligent life. In the long run, they want to be the berserkers in the Fermi Paradox berserker-hypothesis. They literally want to murder their way out of the heat death of the universe, and anyone who doesn't want to line up for annihilation (or contribute to it) is an enemy to all existence.

Tbh I have yet to see other nations that just lean into the idea of a horrific dictatorship shaped by propaganda and ideas. Most of them are cliché cookie-cutter dictatorships.

I want to see something that touches base on the social and political commentary of Metal Gear Rising: Revengeance, or that of Deus Ex, Blade Runner... This twisted world where things seem "normal" only because the idea of "normal" is a collective one, shared by those who live in it, whereas most outsiders would look at it and consider it something horrible, corrupt, wretched, far removed from reality.

Deadass it sometimes feels like y'all think 'having a nation that isn't in a crapsack world on the verge of total collapse or is otherwise total hell to live in' is a bad thing.

Like honestly the world is already fucked up as it is, just let me imagine a better world instead of a worse one tbh.

As someone who's main presence on this site is an insane dystopia, I find cliches in both utopian and dystopian visions. As annoying as it can be to see images of subjective "perfection" portrayed as absolutely utopian societies, and as monotonous as it can get to sift through the most common category of modern-tech democracies, it's equally uninspiring to see many forms of absolutism and tyranny. As strange as it is for me to say, given my love of portraying insane dystopian society, there are so many ways for these things to be too gratuitous or nonsensical. I'm absolutely guilty of this myself to some extent, of course. Admittedly, it's entirely possible that my exhaustion on such matters is self-inflicted.

On the matter of character-based organisations, that is something of an F7 trope I suppose. A lot of F7 threads are somewhat character-oriented rather than nation-oriented, and there are an infinite number of ways to have social organisations that aren't strictly speaking "nations".

NationStates Dictatorship Starterpack:

- Always an absolutist state where the leader has complete and total control over every aspect of the nation
- If not some generic 'evil empire', is thematically based on Nazi Germany, North Korea, or the Soviet Union
- Even if they're thematically based on a RL dictatorship, may or may not actually ideologically match or be similar to the RL dictatorship, but would often rather just be generically 'evil' and 'oppressive'
- Will make threads/posts to show off how 'evil' they are and how much they oppress their citizens, but it always comes off as tryhard and edgy
- MILITARY IS SUPREME. Tons of factbooks and shit about their military (which is, of course, always the greatest military power imaginable) and little about anything else

Let's see how well Kyoki Chudoku fairs, just for fun.

- Always an absolutist state where the leader has complete and total control over every aspect of the nation

Guilty. The Supreme Overlady of All Reality is the absolute authority over everything, and her closest subordinates are literally magically bound to her will. There has been some recent issues over this, and if anyone remembers Kyoki Chudoku Bunkatsu it's pretty obvious things fall apart quickly without her, but as it stands, Aozora is in absolute power. Much to my chagrin at times, honestly- it makes dealing with fun internal politicking much harder than it ought to be.

- If not some generic 'evil empire', is thematically based on Nazi Germany, North Korea, or the Soviet Union

Half and half. Kyoki Chudoku began as a weeb-inspired dystopian nightmare, and is culturally closest to Japan (especially in regards to language and media), but its totalitarian aspects are probably derived from North Korea more than anything else.

- Even if they're thematically based on a RL dictatorship, may or may not actually ideologically match or be similar to the RL dictatorship, but would often rather just be generically 'evil' and 'oppressive'

Guilty. Oppression for the sake of oppression is the core of Chudokuren doctrine. Later efforts were made to make so-called Aozoratarianism more unique and specific, but at the end of the day it's based on sadistic cruelty and appealing to the whims of a single tyrant. Later trauma and such has given a more unique identity to the country, but at the end of the day it all shares a fairly generically oppressive foundation.

- Will make threads/posts to show off how 'evil' they are and how much they oppress their citizens, but it always comes off as tryhard and edgy

Half-guilty. Kyoki Chudoku has many, many edgy aspects, but not all of them are to do with oppression. Admittedly, some are. Kyoki Chudoku has a lot of torture scenes in its past. These days though, most of the edge comes from Nightmare War trauma, which isn't specific to the oppression.

- MILITARY IS SUPREME. Tons of factbooks and shit about their military (which is, of course, always the greatest military power imaginable) and little about anything else

Half-guilty. Kyoki Chudoku once had many factbooks about its military, and to some extent still does. However, the more modern take has been to point out the pathetic weaknesses of the military. For all its tools of terror, Kyoki Chuoku has forces that are often unpredictably psychotic to their own detriment. Most of its advanced tools come from allied support, and it doesn't have the population to do much more than patrol its home islands. I even went to the trouble of having a super-soldier project that is actually kind of a complete waste of resources. So I'd argue that it's far from the greatest military power imaginable, but even so, Kyoki Chudoku does have a lot of dangerous toys lying around- they're just based around a very flimsy foundation.

Aight, guess I'll join in.

"Always an absolutist state where the leader has complete and total control over every aspect of the nation"

Guilty. Milipol Junta does indeed have pretty strong control over just about every aspect of the nation, and even I'm not quite sure how that's possible. I mean, I suppose that there are some offices that have some independence, but considering that they're kinda parts of the Junta... yeah.

"If not some generic 'evil empire', is thematically based on Nazi Germany, North Korea, or the Soviet Union"

Quite guilty, especially when it comes to North Korea. Did model a few of my factbooks off of some Wikipedia pages of North Korea, but the other two not quite. Did not draw from Nazi Germany when it came to generating lore for my nation (went for East Germany instead but I'm considering taking out East German influences) and if anything went more or less for the Independent State of Croatia. Soviet influences are very minimal on this nation.

"Even if they're thematically based on a RL dictatorship, may or may not actually ideologically match or be similar to the RL dictatorship, but would often rather just be generically 'evil' and 'oppressive'"

Pretty guilty of this. This nation is based off of actual juntas such as those that have existed in Chile, Greece, and Myanmar, but I feel as if I just took random elements from these dictatorships and put them in my nation, and my nation doesn't quite match up with them ideologically, doesn't help that my nation as of now just seems like a giant ideological clusterfuck. Also, I feel that while there is some oppression for something other than for it's own sake, though it may just come off as that.

"Will make threads/posts to show off how 'evil' they are and how much they oppress their citizens, but it always comes off as tryhard and edgy"
Well, I am too stupid to make threads, but I suppose I have made posts to show off how not-nice my nation is to the populace that could come off as such.

"MILITARY IS SUPREME. Tons of factbooks and shit about their military (which is, of course, always the greatest military power imaginable) and little about anything else"

In my case, barely anything about much of anything, including military and other stuff. Quite balanced I suppose, but there is a bit of emphasis on the military crap, which in my world isn't that great as a military power, while much of everything else isn't really developed.

Leader's profile sounds less like a profile and more like propaganda.

Godulan Puppet #2, RPing as technologically advanced tribal society founded by mongols and vikings (and later with multiple other Asian and Native American cultures) motivated by an intrinsic devotion to the spirit of competition. They'll walk softly, talk softly, and make soothing noises as they stab you in the back and take your stuff... unless you're another Caleshan, whereupon they'll only stab you in the back figuratively!

Tbh I only hit the last one because everyone else with military factbooks just spergs out on sheer numbers like-

"Da tonk is a tonk, yes, we have like 12085745 of them and it strong yes

Also we has rifle, yes, 65428145662 of them, is good yes

An we haz da pl0n, it 6512416528 yes yes good very good yes"

So on.

Also, it's typical of ANY military to claim to be "the best" so honestly, that last point is irrelevant to cookie-cutter dictatorships when it's standard fare for any non-pacifist nation that fails to realize what a military, defense force or police force is used for.

- MILITARY IS SUPREME. Tons of factbooks and shit about their military (which is, of course, always the greatest military power imaginable) and little about anything else

Always an Absolutist State

Guilty, although it's also kinda crucial so I can handwave the state not literally collapsing in a minute

Always based on the Big Three Dictatorships

.... I mean, yeah, although I technically took more from the Soviet Union than North Korea

Doesn't actually ideologically match with inspiration

Fall into this, although I'm going to try and actually iron out some ideological details that make sense

Edgy Posts

Don't fall into this, I think

Military Supremacy

Don't fall into this one either, the military is quite literally the (alternate) world's largest paper tiger.

- Always an absolutist state where the leader has complete and total control over every aspect of the nation
YAY

- If not some generic 'evil empire', is thematically based on Nazi Germany, North Korea, or the Soviet Union

We aren't evil, we only kill people who deserve it. Those armenian peacekeepers invading ZN deserved it. The children's hospital was just collateral damage. NAY

Even if they're thematically based on a RL dictatorship, may or may not actually ideologically match or be similar to the RL dictatorship, but would often rather just be generically 'evil' and 'oppressive'

N/A mostly, but the early history is fairly accurate to conquistadors, so NAY.

- Will make threads/posts to show off how 'evil' they are and how much they oppress their citizens, but it always comes off as try hard and edgy

We don't work to oppress our citizens, we work to oppress OTHER people's citizens. NAY

- MILITARY IS SUPREME. Tons of factbooks and shit about their military (which is, of course, always the greatest military power imaginable) and little about anything else

The only dedicated military factbooks I have are just one that I split up to make it easier to navigate. NAY.

- Doesn't have much of a reason to exist.

The other global powers in my region offer human sacrifices to eldritch 'gods' (demons). We certainly are the preferred alternative for people to live in, especially given the amount of anti-human genocide, we need humans who genocide the anti-human genociders. NAY

- Constant jokes about war crimes to the point it ceases to be funny
Joke? Check the news(Ok maybe true)

- Doesn't have any sort of compelling story or hook to it

This is just purely relative.

- Posts on F7 a couple times (maybe 11 if they're spicy) a couple times before getting bored and leaving

I did my stuff long before I used forum, then Rped a decent bit, including a full(short admittedly) civil war on 11, before that did a few FaNI, and have done a ton of posts here. NAY

- Leader is always in military uniform, probably never washes the thing
Even if Theodoric wanted to not wash, Gothia is so wet he wouldn't have a choice.

- Leader also has a long-ass name

For the longest time he was just (title) Theodoric, with Siculo being a term I made up on the fly relatively recently, and don't use much. NAY

Leader's profile sounds less like a profile and more like propaganda.

I mean, the leader Factbook was just for the F7 people to see what he looks like. His old history had him depicted as basically a 3rd world central American warlord fighting mafias and companies to free his nation. So kinda, but I deleted that, not because it isn't cannon, but dunces interpreted it as him killing his family, even though the mafias was clearly meant to be the ones killing his brother and brother's wife. So NAY

Come out, the WA has passed a resolution. Actions will be taken to bring your nation into compliance.

Fair response to my criteria, but I would not in any way call your nation unconvincing or without any hooks lmao

I wasn't trying to accuse you of such. Though I do need to go back one day and re-add in lore, I had to cut a bunch of the history, which is why it is so short.

Deadass it sometimes feels like y'all think 'having a nation that isn't in a crapsack world on the verge of total collapse or is otherwise total hell to live in' is a bad thing.

Like honestly the world is already fucked up as it is, just let me imagine a better world instead of a worse one tbh.

There's nothing wrong with what your saying but it's more the realistic part of things where you'll have a nation where everything is so perfect and nothing bad ever happens or has happened.

Like your own lore has Gandoor going through a civil war and being under a dictatorship. There's got to be some sort of scars that aren't fixed yet.

And that's the thing, you don't need to have a hell hole but you need to have some sort of broken things to drive the story. Because that's what I view this all as, that we are telling a story. And if your story has always been perfect and has never changed than that's a boring story.

It's more interesting to read a story where a nation goes from waging cultural genocide to being more accepting of other cultures. Just saying that the nation has always been accepting would be kind of boring
