Thanks. I will look at those. I can see your point, though I still consider 'some' of the Muse stuff 'experimental', even if not all of them are {obviously}. I mean, like I believe I mentioned earlier, they mixed symphonic and Dubstep (played on guitar, not on a computer or whatever). This current one I'm listening to is like, mellow pop or something with what sounds like electronic, though I can't be sure with Muse that they aren't just playing it still....like they did with the 'Dubstep' song. Then there's like, a random short guitar solo that makes me think of like, old-styled guitar solo's or something.

BUT I won't say they are entirely experimental, but they definitely have a variety. I can already tell their new album has a variety with 3 songs that sound completely different from each other.

Muse-Madness

Yeah man I'm not saying they rely on the same old stuff over and over but bands can mix up their sound without experimenting. One of my favourite bands went from bastardised sludge metal to acoustic pop on their last album, but it's not very experimental.

we, unlike the bourgeoisie, have nothing to lose and therefore our expression will be the only honest one, our words will be the only challenging ones and our art will be the one revolutionary expression. We need new noise and new voices and new canvases to become something more than the last poets of a useless generation.

everyone knows that quote, "I know not what weapons World War Three will be fought, but World War Four will be fought with sticks and stones," but in a way it's optimistic and inspiring because it suggests that even after destroying civilization and returning to the stone age we'll still be sufficiently globalized and bellicose to have another world war right then and there
