"Is this it? Have I finally stumbled upon someone who I wouldn't immediately send off to an extermination camp? I mean, he is orderly, of somewhat ethnic desirability, militaristic and an enemy of the red abomination. He lacks the absolute, off-scale totalitarianism that I exhibit, but atleast he's not completely inferior. In fact, he may be desirable enough to only be sent to a work camp, and his anti-communist sentiment is what I would call 'based'. Unfortunately, like every other degenerate in this multiverse, he has his downsides. Not totalitarian enough, not a National Feudalist based on my knowledge and not me. But not necessarily wanting to regress back to the Middle Ages is certainly better than being a communist heretic or of the child-bearing gender."

Opinion on the Al-Dajani
Status: Not Classified, for public's eye, if necessary

So she's a Palestinian and an anarchist? Well, if I am honest, on matter of Palestine I stand with our Lehi partners in Levant, and I am not a fan of most forms of anarchism, so here's that. I don't have any issues with her being a muslim, but I am not sure to which denomination she belongs, or if she is more of a cultural muslim than anything.

Huh, so for once a leader figure who was born in impoverished conditions and saw how the life in not-so green part of life is like, and wasn't born in a middle class family? She seems to have had quite a few tragedies in her life, but at least she got taught the culture and history of her people. At least she didn't become a sheltered keyboard manifesto touter, that's for sure. Either way, I didn't expect mutualism to rise in Palestine out of all places, but yet here we are. I would perhaps condemn her violence, but then I would run in contradiction with myself, because the SC's history is full with spilled blood, so I should rather stay consistent there. Overall, I am gonna cautiously observe her in future, and opinion is neutral-negative.

you're here for, though something tells me you ain't fond enough of me to ask for one. Too "oppressive" and "tyrannical" for your tastes. Well, miss, lemme give ya a word of advice: Those words mean nothing. They're just words. That sort of power dynamic ain't ever going away. I get I'm an ass to people. I get I'm harsh. I also get that I can't watch over everyone on this station. The only people in charge here are me and the Deps, and there's five of us. Not nearly enough to manage the whole place. So I'm harsh. It means people think twice before fucking with the rules. Now, you, you're damn near omnipotent. You can keep the morally-upstanding queen act up as long as you want, but you and me both know you're in charge because you can crush anyone who thinks otherwise into paste. And that's alright. I don't like what you do with that power, but hey, not like I can do anything about it, 'cept shoot you on the spot, and, well, don't think that'd do much to ya, now would it?"

WORD of The President

"President Cesar Ramirez is what I would call a compromisable politician. He is the traditional bourgeois mouthpiece but much of his party's platform and base can be utilized by movements to pressure positive progressive social and political change.

However, he is no ally to working people, anti-racists, pro-LGBT, and pro-feminist people despite what he might attempt to declare of himself. He has empowered bourgeois police with the power to kill if they deem someone potentially a threat to the collective good. In combination, he has protected the right of courts to issue the death penalty for damn robbery of all things! The guy claims to support 'gender equality' then turns around and allows courts to issue the death penalty for abortions for goodness sake. My advice to the progressive forces of Eurasies, that is PSE, EEP, and WP is to oppose Cesar Ramirez but utilize the progressive elements of his base to gain victories in those limited struggles."

I have very minimal respect for this creature but even he would be more acceptable to exist under my regime those demonstrators calling for my resignation."

-President Ekhon Numik

BN: Some major changes have been done to the factbook so atleast give them a check for a slightly clearer understanding of Numik

Lieb Vaterland, magst ruhig sein,
lieb Vaterland, magst ruhig sein,
Fest steht und treu die Wacht, die Wacht am Rhein!

Oswald's Mood: A bit of coughing but is out of his sickbed

"It is a standard routine that I remain hostile to socialist revolutionary leaders and find fault with them and their policies to achieve their goals of a communist paradise. Herr Arek is the archetypal revolutionary ideologue; I am not so convinced with the naming of his policies being "all for the people" when the real agenda is to spread communism all over the globe. To other likeminded socialists he can be viewed as one of many of those champions of the proletariat no doubt, from my viewpoint he is merely another politician exercising populist demagoguery."

"But I did not forget that he was...fair with me on how I handle with the production of weapons that can be effective as propaganda tools than literal machines fine tuned for the battlefield. As much as I abhor all socialists, including himself, I recognize that he even acknowledges that I am a realist."

- His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of the Imperial Fatherland,
Oswald I

AAN:

"His Majesty the King, Alistair. (As he is about to speak, Oswald coughs into his elbow and requests his servants to get him a box of facial tissue, so that he does not spread his illness onto others. And he speaks) I...do regret my first impressions of him being this typical drunkard who is unable to stomach his alcohol in full. I still feel disappointed with my misconception of him. But still, I am...sorry I was feeling I might cough but I shall resume: King Alistair would benefit best if he seeks enough...Hmgh...therapy—(Oz coughs, and continues speaking still)—therapy, that way he may rule as effectively and that he may not speak while he is in a state of drunkenness." -His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of the Imperial Fatherland, Oswald I

AN:

"(Oswald coughs into a facial tissue, then he speaks) Um Gottes Willen—as if talking about a socialist was enough, instead I am now dealing with this adventurist capitalist zealot. Leaders ordering their troops to take out their guns and use them to unjustly murder people who don't agree with their beliefs are small-minded, this "President" is less cunning and more paranoid and exercised, and still exercises, more of his incompetence and petulance than his "cleverness" when dealing with his opponents. (He coughs into a facial tissue again and resumes speaking) The "President" has made...unbelievably idiotic steps and that would be a gross understatement of what he did and is doing at this moment. He's made more enemies than he realizes but I can assume his perception is smaller than his wisdom."

-His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of the Imperial Fatherland, Oswald!
