Well, there are certainly alternative methods of acquiring the Sims that I am totally not aware off.

Btw, did you know that the adjective of "a crack" is cracked? Really interesting.

I have been using them for so long and to be honest.. I agree! It's hard to just let them do a neutral face and if I start trying to be a bit more expressive, they either muted their facial expressions, or exaggerated it so hard that they started clipping.

Though admittedly at many times, I do get decent and usable expressions. Plus the modding and adding custom content means I can just run it in Sims.

Unless one day I became a bonafide graphics animator, which has an one in a trillion chance.

People making 'Based on the flag/name/motto/whatever' game threads in F7 with really specific premises.

'Based on their flag, what percentage arable land does AN have?'

'Based on their motto, what is the average lifespan of women in AN?'

'Based on their leader's last name, what is the last name of AN's leader?'

It's probably the one board that almost never has mods warning/banning people in it due to rulebreaking.

I wouldn't mind the entire sports forum being wiped and reset with better quality sports RP. Again, if I want to watch American football, I can just turn on the TV.

It's a lost art, ain't it?

That and being woefully misinformed and ignorant, with all due respect. For clarity's sake, I'm not being overly defensive just because I'm in a few of them. Even if I wasn't in, it would have been nice to see a more informed opinion from others, instead of the surfacial drivel and conveniently leaving out facts.

"We don't use NS stats" coupled with "my country has 30 billion people/whatever is more than my opponent"

"my nation's entire population is a warrior race and can not lose a war despite using literal mob tactics from 2000 BC" armies that are over 10% of a country's population

"there are no homeless people, mentally ill people, or societal issues in my multicultural democracy, because all of our social programs work perfectly and everyone uses them :)"

democratic nations who never have leadership changes even after their leaders start wars they can't win on purely ideological grounds (might be a relic of when I was actually active on NS, I don't bother with RP anymore), and, in fact, seem to have no real opposition party at all

That and their "Factbooks" are unconventional, which I put in air quotes not because they are bad, but because they are told through stories in the forum posts. They don't have gameside Factbooks.

Though admittedly, I do find that to be a bit troublesome because your stuff gets lost in a sea of posts. I like a hybrid of making stories in the RPs, then writing that down in your Factbooks.

As a historical fun fact: NS Sports is as old as NS itself, going way back to the Jolt Era (~2003... Or goodness knows when).

I understand it's not everyone's cup of tea, but it's a big disservice to see it misinformed.

Even F&N only came during the later part of Jolt 😊 people were usually sticking their factbooks in the NationStates or GE&T forum. Jolt also had some quirks where the page code would break... spamming 4096x4096 ultra high def pictures of Ronnie Reagan was a popular way of telling Communists they sucked at RPing

Oooh, cool trivia, thanks! ^^

Wow, to think we could have gone to 4096 instead of 1800px. The fact that you can even post an image that big on the forums is amazing, albeit being abused.

That's the situation for a lot of RPer too, having a maintenance/lore thread and worldbuilding through posts
