Not technically a crime. To "hack" us (modify data) you'd need physical access to cutting-edge floppy disks or magnetic tape reels... it's 1968. I guess it could count as vandalism to government property, so the answer is a fine to repair damages incurred and 1 to 5 years.

Depends. If one finds a reason to challenge the powerful (but rarely extremely rich- the richest 1%'s wealth is around 10 times average household) nobles and manages to wound or even kill them in a duel than not a crime, to do otherwise is considered an attempted murder and may result in hanging or firing squad at worst.

Holding noble titles?

That would be considered a major act of corruption of office, and you'd definitely see yourself either excommunicated & expelled, or having your hands cleaved off.

IC: the Order of Mare Nostrum, but are also known as the Knights of Mare Nostrum or simply Mare Nostrum. The year is 2022, with PMT tech.

Anthem: Ave Regina Caelorum

The Knights of Mare Nostrum are an order formed in 1189 centered around islands in the Mediterranean after the Knights Hospitaller and Templar merged, along with the integration of other knightly orders through history, and now serve a role as a militarized wing of the Papacy which utilises what is essentially hyper-militaristic canon law.
