I'm enjoying it.

The same, because listening to a whole album takes a while.

I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

I never knew he was in Apparat Organ Quartet as well! I have some of their stuff already, but I think I prefer his solo stuff. It is, as you said, very like Olafur Arnalds. Maybe a tad more sparse, which is nice.

Johann Johannsson - "Ef Ég Hefði Aldrei..."

Think I've heard that name before.

Yeah, they definitely have a similar sound, but even then, I consider them both to be their own. They are overall pretty different then each other IN that particular style of music.

Agh, I got so much music I need to go through. I kinda want to go through more Johann Johannsson now. I need to do the say with Ulaful Arnalds.

Being Liberal, doesn't give you the right to claim an open mind. An open mind is merely the door way to your own conclusion. By making this conclusion, you have closed your mind. The intelligent tend to be cynical, while the bliss tend to be the most compassionate. Also, if your people on NS are catagorized as cynical and compassionate, it is not a glitch, your society has made them psychopaths at worse and sociopaths at the least. They may appear charming but underneath....

Yeah, it's pretty funny that the only song he doesn't improvise is full of profanity, whereas his improvised stuff (everything else) is usually just amusing, surreal thoughts and profanity-free.

The point of that song is to kind of make a point about the degrading of music videos these days or something, isn't it? I don't remember exactly.
