Why do Post-Rock bands all have the best of song names?

They Try to Cheer Me Up by Saying I did once Live a Functioning Life, by Suffocate For Fuck Sake, from the album Blazing Fires and Helicopters on the Front Page of the Newspaper. There's a War Going On and I'm Marching in Heavy Boots. You're probably right those are all great titles.

Return to NOD, High on Fire.

we, unlike the bourgeoisie, have nothing to lose and therefore our expression will be the only honest one, our words will be the only challenging ones and our art will be the one revolutionary expression. We need new noise and new voices and new canvases to become something more than the last poets of a useless generation.

Geez. I always prefer long song names because they tend to be cooler then short song names.

I prefer them too. I like maudlin of the Well and they have some long song titles, but I dislike 'Excerpt from 6,000,000,000,000 Miles Before the First, or, the Revisitation of the Blue Ghost' probably because of all the 000's.
