That's no crime in Sky Reaver commonwealth.

After learning, that inspection is coming, two rival restaraunts actively try to sneak rats, mice and roaches into their rival's kitchen.

Sky Reavers are retconned Skyhooked. A bunch of crazy, wild everpartying semi-anarchists, who are resistant to cold, heat and diseases, can can process booze like hell. MT/PMT tech. Wanna know more or have a request? It's here: <https://forum.nationstates.net/viewtopic.php?f=23&t=505973>

Remember, the fact, that we are semi-anarchy doesn't mena, that ya' can go around and rob random people. We still got law and order, loose as they are.

Probably a referral to a mental institution but otherwise not a crime. You'd just be really weird, and not to mention this isn't even possible, except in CyberSpace, where nothing is a crime except criticizing the regime.

Going to a busy intersection a 9:18 P.M on a Saturday and setting up an inflatable bouncy castle, right next to a red building, and deliberating timing it so that when a car passes they will crash into the bouncy castle but swerve enough to smash into the red building, setting off the fire alarm which in turn sprays water which triggers a chemical reaction as it comes in contact with a reactive element, starting a chain reaction that ignites the entire block, blowing up several households, incinerating possessions and people, and worst of all I say worst of all, scaring the poor neighborhood dog that miraculously survived the incident otherwise unharmed?

That would count as arson + potential manslaughter (if person in the car dies) + public disruption of noise and light pollution laws.

I'm sorry, what!? That is not possible, but if you somehow made like a shack for example, fines, and some corporal punishment. Not sure why anyone would try this though. If you have a permit, then no punishment.

my bad I got ninja'd

Committing genocide against any human entity in Stella Nera is automatic torture and death on top of extreme Time Dilation Prison to drive you crazy. If against sentient robots then massive fines and possible similar punishments due to the "immense destruction of property as a terrorist act". However the government has slightly different definitions of what genocide is compared to other governments, so religious and political persecution is allowed in order to maintain the antireligious libertarian authoritarian order.

If done against another nation, then the punishment depends on or relation with them. If we dislike them, then no punishment. If neutral, possible punishment. If on good terms, probably some punishment. Its all about our relations at the time. Note that anything not considered genocide in Stella Nera is also not considered so by the government here even if other governments disagree so there will be no punishment for such acts that do not meet the Stella Nera definition of genocide, however there is the potential for punishment for things such as "destruction of property" for killing sentient robots, which is usually fines if done in small, repayable amounts. However the practice f doing so is discourage as killing the workers (the robots) is overall bad for the economy. We are content with keeping them without any rights, but outright killing and dissembling them is counteractive to maintain our powerful economy.
