"On a completely professional level, I find Yamami-Romanova's meddling in the local social policies in Mexico and Korea ironically imperialistic, even if it is under a rainbow flag. Professionalism aside, there's just something off about her. She reminds me of an unhinged great aunt of mine who seemed normal but ended up arrested for keeping an unholy amount cats in her basement, many of which she recycled for fur pillow cases."

"I am at odds with my opinion on the Chancellor. While I support the freedom of expression as such is warranted against the media, however, his choice to reinstitute Monarchical rule even under a Constitution? The overt aggrandizing of the nature of abortion? I do not find myself harboring many agreements upon his opinions in certain areas.

However, he is an effective leader in his handling of the recent pandemic. I do not however have much further information upon him to make any more firm judgments.

Thus I maintain a Neutral stance upon him, albeit leaning Negatively."

"Ah, if I understand this right, she's a theocrat? But a tolerant one. Well, I'm no better. As Baizou's sovereign, I'm technically a vassal to the English throne, which means my power comes from the Anglican Church even though I myself am Catholic! Hah, it's a strange history that Baizou has... but enough about me. The Mother of Wyrms is the only one who can communicate with the Giant Space Wyrms? Well, the only one who can do so without going mad, it seems. That's certainly an important position to be in, and it seems she's handling the responsibility remarkably well. Heh, she institutes policy as foundational as religious freedom and also as mundane as standardizing money. Color me impressed."

—Sovereign Oshiro Haruto

"Her photo makes her look so young, but I guess that's just a side-effect of immortality, isn't it? But I guess it's what they say: great leaders aren't born; they're made. No slight to my husband, but I think he makes the right call by staying out of the fray of Baizou's politics. He was born to reign, but he knows for himself he's better as a symbol of Baizou than an administrator. But Almira was not born to lead—she was made to lead, in effect, by the Giant Space Wyrms. What a tremendous responsibility..."

—Princess Consort Oshiro Yuu

"It's too bad that I'm reading an unfinished version of the Eldest's biography, because this is gripping stuff. I wonder how she forced all her foes to tap out with just a tower shield? Though I have to admit, I never thought we'd compete in blood sport in the future, but I guess the unexpected is just in the nature of the multiverse, isn't it?"

—Premier Fukushima Sonoko

"Alas, anti-communism... as a Marxist Party member I am dismayed, though not surprised. Still, you are also anti-laissez-faire capitalism, so you're at least able to recognize the 'free market' dogma for what it is. I also will say that your Oath of the Crusader is... pretty inspiring. I will fear not the number of my enemy for you are my ally. / I will fear not the enemy for your might secures me. I might have to print that out and put it on my mirror. I could use the reminder to trust in the strength of friends and colleagues."

"Beginning with Premier Fukushima, I support her efforts to protect the civil and spiritual liberty of Baizou's citizens, as well as her pushes against poverty and efforts to reduce recidivism without simply giving the police a blank check. Ambassador Mizushima appears to be a well-educated individual suited for her job; based on her most recent response in this venue she is willing to evaluate and work with people even if they do not follow her views. Sovereign Haruto uses his vested powers responsibly and leaves most governing to the more elected sections of government, something I respect; even if I am the highest earthly authority on our island, I still listen to the concerns and opinions of my fellow beings, and take that into account when I consult with our kami. The Princess Consort has been a positive force bringing attention to Baizou's unique native culture and overall seems to be a very pleasant person. I particularly identify with her interest in history and share her support for historical education and the preservation of history in general. CARRIE I am not sure how to properly form an opinion on, as the jury seems to still be out, as they say, on whether she is actually sapient. Even if not, I must say that her existence is a great technological achievement, and if so, she certainly seems to be a helpful and pleasant intelligence.

I know the main purpose of my response here is to give my opinion on the leaders and public figures of Baizou, but I would also like to add that I have greatly enjoyed my reading of the nation's history and political situation. In particular I plan to devote some time to studying how their local language diverged from mainstream Japanese in its development; I am reminded of how much our own dialect on Ketorushima has shifted since we left Japan so many centuries ago. Overall, I wish the leaders and denizens of Baizou well, and would not be against meeting them should the opportunity arise."

"As much as I usually carry disdain for important figures of heathen religions such as priestesses, I find madam Chie to be at the very least an interesting character. She seems to be benevolent initially, but I find it somewhat hard to look into her as a proper character since she is apparently under the control of a figure called Inari. In my opinion, this may very well be demonic possession, as it is yet another entity that appears to give itself another name and take control of a figure of importance so that it may strive away from Christ's light... though on the other hand, she keeps to herself, and doesn't actively exert followers. As long as her and her Yokai don't end up sucking in commoners to their cult en masse, and end up threatening Nostrumic interests thus, I will tolerate her existence just fine. I'll keep neutral for now."

This is not something I am saying due to his political belief; this is something I am saying upon realizing the fact that not only did he take part in and encouraged the abuse of over 130,000 women but also paid hush money to his little cabal of similarly worthless subhumans to keep it a secret until he was eventually busted. #### Arpent de Nieve (Monegasque Republic)

Setting: 1926 (PT/FanT)

After the Monaco Succession Crisis of 1918 ended up with the Grimaldi being exiled from Monaco and the microstate being taken over by pro-French politicians, lobbyists, businessmen, Sicilian mafia and odd string of cultists, the little country on Cote d'Azur now becomes hotbed of excesses and degeneracies that rivals Weimar Republic. Now a gambling table for the struggle of power between multiple factions, in a state where money equals power and vice versa - both in this life and the next. Major influence here.

"While he may pose as a distinguished gentleman, this man... or, well, might as well be a demon or a sorcerer thanks to some rumors of his power, is the pure embodiment of sin. He embraces the foul pastime of gambling and uses it as a source of monetary income, never takes into consideration the holy sanctity of love within his own 'borders', easily convinced by dangling a few expensive items in front of him to do as you please like the vulnerable sinner he is, and is also proud to host a pagan death cult. This man is, dare I say it, an incarnation of one or more of the deadly sins, though I cannot decide if he is one of greed or pride."

~Grandmaster Baldassar Cagliares

IC: the Order of Mare Nostrum, but are also known as the Knights of Mare Nostrum or simply Mare Nostrum.

Anthem: Ave Regina Caelorum

The Knights of Mare Nostrum are an order formed in 1189 centered around islands in the Mediterranean after the Knights Hospitaller and Templar merged, along with the integration of other knightly orders, serving as a militarized Papal State which utilises what is essentially hyper-militaristic canon law.
