I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

Autechre-Second Peng

This artist is my most listened to by hours by quite a bit. According to my most recent Lastimer update (Which doesn't seem to update itself like it told me it would), I have 23 hours of listening time on Autechre, 4 hours above 2nd place. In plays, they're about 4th, at 238. And I've listened to a few hours of them since the last update I did, so it is probably even more like 6 hours ahead of 2nd now...

My first with the most plays (Deerhoof at 321) is 13th in most hours listened to...

Gives you a good example of which band has really short songs and which doesn't...

There's also 2nd place in most listened to by hours, Jesu, who isn't even in my top 8 for most plays, and my lowest in the top 8 for plays is Pink Floyd at 192 (Kinda surprised they're up there).

I officially have 7 bands with over 200 plays as well.

Jay-Z – Brooklyn's Finest

Finally giving in, after avoiding listening to Jay-Z for a while (wasn't that interested in his music at first).

Yeah, Jay's a little too boring for me right now... I'll try again later when I'm in a less irritated mood.
