Murder on Music Row - Alan Jackson & George Strait.

As the only country fan on NSG A&F, it's my duty to post this one.

I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

I've never met anyone who said they disliked this song, so I'll just assume everyone has good taste then.

Listening to nothing right now, because I'm going to bed. Good night.

You're not the only country fan here, honey, and I'm wondering the same thing (though I strongly suspect money's the answer). Country music used to have a voice. Reba sang about AIDS (and took a lot of shit for that). Martina covered spousal and child abuse. Emerson Drive dealt with suicide. Craig Morgan shone a light on homelessness. Now all I hear is sex, drinking, and sometimes drugs.
