Symbol of the Directorate

The Statement on Nemo

"Huh, so Northern Ateria has a new monarch? If our intel is correct, there have been several other Aterian empresses with name "Nemo", and this is just the newest iteration. If anything, it is hilarious how quickly the position of leader is shifting from one hand to another in Ateria, even without elections! If we were bleeding heart liberals, we would surely condemn you for your ahem less than free ruling style, but from our current position it would be hypocritical. Anyways, let's see what this newest Nemo has in store."

"So, she's the only surviving member of the Imperial Family after her brother got assassinated by rebels? That sounds bad, because if someone assassinates her as well, the country would either need a new Imperial Family, or look to more distant relatives for succession. At least she isn't trying to organize something she doesn't have experience nor competence in (such as military), and leaves it to people who are actually skilled in that field. Also, it is good to maintain relations with several of the individuals you listed, since several of them act rather independently."

"As for what she has done... Alright, we believe that you have done reconstruction effort after the civil war devastation, because that's what a sane person would do, but how much of those funds have been squandered to corruption and bureaucrats? In other words, it is almost guaranteed that the rebuilding isn't going at the fastest potential pace. Her Combat Arena sounds awfully similar to the Roman Colosseum and the saying "Panem et circenses", and reclaiming the lands lost in civil war reminds us of Russian Civil War, except with the "White" side winning. On urbanization we are mixed - from one side it is good and we have invested in it as well, but at the same time it empties out the countryside and rural parts."

"Yeah, good charisma is important, but so is being down to earth, at least in case if you are an individual. We as a group can't be down to earth, but our members individually can. Either way, it seems that a posh accent is not only British royal family's thing, and while we appreciate how well Nemo can express her opinions on people eloquently, judging things at face value is not always the best, especially in cases where the situation requires further deeper insight. Also, at least she has an altruist and selfless behavior, which could very well work in a collectivist society, even if we might disagree on how to approach the situation of refugees. It is also kinda sad that her brother turned out to be an incompetent ruler."

In insisting it's a political simulation, NS ignores its reality as a political simulation game. Games have boundaries, and modern roleplaying games have safety tools. NS has neither, leaving it stuck as a badge-collecting pay-to-win where causticness is excused as "character," grieving/raiding is "just politics," and F7 is more courteous than General Assembly.

Ambassador Mizushima Miya

"Oh my—the duty to promote international harmony never ceases to surprise. Now I am called upon to observe the Chairwoman in her younger years? Of course, 'young' is rather relative, isn't it? Even in 1470, Ōmiya Sakura remains almost 300 years my senior! But I am digressing; now, to return to the task at hand, and to do my best to limit my remarks to the Ōmias as they were then, not now. Though this is an interesting exercise, as I am familiar with the Chairwoman in the present, but not quite so familiar with her sister—ah, again, I am becoming distracted.

"Sakura seems quite mature for her—er, I nearly said something foolish; hold on a moment. She seems... plenty mature for 300-years old? But surprisingly mature for one who would seem to be a young woman of academy age, is what I meant. She is poetic, likes to take life slowly, and finds value in simple, lighthearted pleasures. Despite the last point, however, Sakura seems to dislike being seen as cute or childlike, and she initially protested at a classmate playing with her hair. I am guessing Sakura protested because she thinks the action indicates Rieko perceived Sakura as, well, 'cute' and childlike, therefore making it acceptable to 'play' with her unprompted. I can't blame Sakura for being a little annoyed by that; I've not been victim to such treatment, but I've had classmates who have been. Some take it well and like the feeling of a friendly hand in her hair; others feel encroached upon and wonder why people don't ask for permission. It is interesting, then, that Sakura gives up her protest fairly easily—it seems surprisingly permissive of her, when she is quite conscious of the vast experience gap between herself and Rieko.

"What, then, is my opinion of Sakura? Well, I think she seems pleasant and admirable, even at this 'young' age. She has a sense of perspective that keeps her from rushing, and she has a compassionate heart, encouraging her classmate and sharing lunch with her. I'm also impressed by her emotional resilience. In less than a year after the dreadful tragedy of October 1471, she was once again poised and confident with a mindset that looked out instead of in. In fact, even the day after she was already looking out instead of in, being quick to deflect Sayuri's compliment about cooking in favor of complimenting Sayuri's ability to hunt. Nevertheless, there is still a youthful forwardness to Sakura. She is cheeky enough to joke that she is perfect yet self-conscious enough to feel uncomfortable about how others perceive her.

"As I have once again revealed my discursive propensity, I hope it is alright that I save my opinion on Sayuri for another day. For now I will just say that she seems to prefer a more fast-paced approach to living. While I think most associate rush with materialism, however, Sayuri is the very opposite, as she apparently attaches all her life's value to her sister and their relationship. Most interesting."

Official Judgement of The Overseers:

Judgement: Fukushima is Pure Degeneracy
Punishment: Death by Scaphism

"Premier Fukushima is just another Godless Communist. We have seen so many of those heathens in this cursed 'forum' that we may as well remove the number '7' from the Tilminese language and execute all who mention it as crimethinkers. But anyway, ideas like 'equality' and 'civil liberties' go against the very nature of what humanity and the very pillars of society are. Everything this agnostic premier stands for makes us more and more disappointed with society. Social welfare? Universal healthcare? People should work their backs off 16 hours a day if they want to deserve anything, not get it for free. Even worse, 'transitional surgery' a heretic action which goes against the traditional gender roles of humanity, is provided under such a hideous system. All of this degeneracy is worsened by the fact that a female is breaking the rightfully assigned role and is running a country."

VlaRiSsiA's oldest puppet who was revived out of boredom. NS stats were accused of heresy and burned at the stake.

The Tilminese Federation is a totalitarian fascist theocracy ruled with an iron fist by The Overseers, a fanatical organization of theocratic fundamentalists seeking to eradicate 'modern degeneracy'. Has scenic architecture, no light pollution, quiet streets and public executions for the smallest crimes. On and one in every four Tilminese has died from starvation, disease, execution, forced labor, and genocide ever since the Overseers have taken power but that's not too important.

"If I may be so straightforward, these so-called 'Overseers' are just nauseating. Crushing uprisings and belittling others are just their prominent attributes, nothing else is special and distinguishable about the Overseers."
- Her Imperial Majesty the Empress of the New Empire of Northern Ateria, Nemo

This is not funny and it is dark

General is this huge, uneducated, primitive shithole where everybody's an expert, and everybody has to share an opinion; and it's usually the result of people eating rotten alphabet soup, because people are just shitting out words that don't make sense. And don't get me started on Fo-
