I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

I've found some pretty great stuff because of Last.fm.....to add on top of the already major amounts of stuff I need to go through.

Anesthetize is definitely one of my favorites. Way Out Of Here is up there, too. That whole album is, honestly.

Rammstein - Rammstein

Ironic that industrial metal is done best by a group of ex-factory workers.

My nation DOES NOT reflect my political views. The interplanetary-level Federation government is libertarian only for realism purposes, and functions more like a confederation. Since it has such a large territory to manage, the federal bureaucracy can only provide the bare essentials efficiently, while most other decisions are devolved down to the planetary governments.

If you're reading this, you are an winrar.

I think we're going to have to disagree that Rammstein is the best industrial metal group. I would place them near the lower end, but that's just me. I think.

The name on Spotify is "This Time Last Year" and on YouTube it is "Last Time This Year". I'm going with YouTube being correct, since it was posted by the bands official YouTube page and all.
