Despite the amount of mixing between different ethnic groups that are the ancestors of the Deccani people making it impossible for any of them to be purely of one ancestry, they often will still identify with just one ancestry despite being aware of their highly mixed ancestry.

They claim descent from a mythological figure names Ghes, who serves as a kind of Abraham-esque figure. According to their daims he came into what is now their area with his wives, children, slaves, ect, which they named after him. (IMO he sounds a bit more like Romulus than Abraham).

What if Eastern Rome survived?

Basic Overview: Basically an althist where Basil II actually has decent successors who build on his achievements, resulting in a STRONK ERE that beats back the Sejuks and eventually does it's own reconquesta in the Middle East. Also, The Crusades never happened, the Viking conquest of Britain succeeded, Genghis Khan died as a young prisoner in a tribal camp, Alexander Nevsky united Russia, and the HRE became a centralized state and destroyed France and the Normans.

He partly serves as a moral guide, his wives form the basis for the clan structure, and he had a hell of a lot of kids.

Where many Western nations in other circumstances would often find a road to political reform within their own governing bodies towards more democratic institutions, a centuries-long history of absolute monarchy in the Rhomanian Empire has both kept its citizens not only accustomed to such a form of rule but has also kept these citizens' faith in such institutions.

Additionally, decades of an informal adherence by recent Emperors to what may commonly be known as the ideology of a "benevolent dictatorship" in a post-war period has only served to solidify the legitimacy of absolute monarchy in Rhomania.

Their approach to the economy makes every factory and business a kind of self-contained micro-nation in which each worker has a stake in the success of the community, which sorta takes the path that communism should have taken.

And is kinda what the Caleshan have done.

The Caleshan's solution to the disconnect between an absolute leader in a meritocracy and the people they rule over was to create a system where the ruled have a gun to the ruler's head at all times in the form of public opinion. Which is most certainly one way to solve that problem.

They worship an omnipotent, unfathomable, somewhat all knowing and all powerful Sky Goddess. The belief is based around the constant existence of the sky and the cosmos, which the Sky-Mother is both part of yet also beyond and outside of the cosmic realm. They also believe that the Winds act as helpers or subordinates of the Sky-Mother and are given human characteristics.

Their military actually has their own set of production weapons, but they still engage in trade with other countries such as Russia, Turkey, Saudi Arabia, and even Canada for other various military arms.

"The Precursors were apparently not too great shepherds of life. They created a species dubbed the "Parasites" or "Chimera" rumored to be made by one of their own and said species apparently advanced quickly enough to drive them out of the Multiverse all by their lonesome.

I don't know how they knew that other life would advance so quickly to match the ungrateful louts but honestly, it seems kind of a big gamble."
