I'd say this nation is about 85-90% representative to my beliefs

About the only difference between my nation and beliefs is that free markets are effective in a select few situations, and the compulsory organ harvesting is kind of screwed up

I'm probably in the minority, but I actually pay more attention to in game stats than to roleplay

Yes, I would be happy to live in Meadowfields:

Some Pros:

- Socialist
- All their NS Policies except for compulsory Vegetarianism
- Their NS Stats in general
- A very interesting culture surrounding religion and mythology
- At least half the populace is skeptical of religion
- A strong multi-party democracy with lots of leftist parties
- Not hot
- Lots of seemingly well designed cities

Some Cons:

- Compulsory Vegetarianism (which is not the worst thing in the world)
- They have not been a free socialist nation for very long, which presents some worries for their long-term prospects
- Their revolution was apparently violent instead of peaceful, which is understandable, but unfortunate and still presents some concerns
- They may at time be a little too cold for my taste (but at least that gives lots of opportunities to marvel at winter-like beauty and to experience hygge)

Like people, Lilguay and its Factbooks are all works in progress. Just be nice and enjoy the creativity, wit, and escapism of yours and others fantasy nations, civilizations, and worlds.

Why not? Extremely great quality of life (so many 5% badges, with a few 1% ones) and a fairly large amount of freedom. Only downside is that it's capitalist and allows cannibalism.

Ninja'd

Nope, sorry, way too capitalist and conservative for me.

This place has rural areas that are kinda dangerous, but it seems to be very developed, and the cities themselves seem pretty safe, so I guess I would live here.
