@Ushomaia - Man, double ninjā'd; on name alone the Workers Rights Party or Socialist People's Party are the most appealing, but of the big three I would go with the National Liberty Party.

Indeed; our governmental system being inherently syndicalist for just over a century and an enduring cold war with the United States has had the effect of shifting the political centre a little to the left, and of course time and culture play a part - I'm sure nearly all modern-day political parties would crowd the left corners of a compass designed in the throes of late feudalism - especially with the institutions that facilitate them being radical concepts in many places back then.

@Azania I see you around on this thread enough to assume I've done yours before, but its also possible that for that very reason I never have. Either way, my top pick would either be the Congress of the People or the Socialist Party of Azania, depending on individual circumstances. After that, the Green Party and African National Congress would tie for third place.

If men were angels, no government would be necessary. If angels were to govern men, neither external nor internal controls on government would be necessary. The Communist party isn't specific enough, so I'll just assume it's good Communism and support them.

They're Stalinists
that's why they're hated
also the only good communist is a dead one
