Silence isn't as quiet as it used to be - the fridge compressor gurgling, the furnace fan whirring, the computer fan, the wall clock going 'tick-tick-tick' - Aaaaarrghh the click click click of the computer keyboard as I type 'this' , the whooshing sound of blood rushing through my ears, the tell-tale thump-dump thump-dump of the cask of amontillado behind the wall, the click of the mouse button as I click on Submit...

“CVT Temp wrote:

I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.
