That's a trope with virulent anti-Communists on this site who will neglect a socialist nation's lore in favour of making every assumption of it on their preconception of ideological aesthetic; this is usually taken from a perspective that is blatantly just an imposition of their personal sentiments. It's frankly ridiculous and has led to a pretty toxic RP climate. There are also the borderline meme-y communist nations which have clearly been constructed with a poor understanding of Communism (with even the internal rationale and rhetoric being at odds with what occurred in actual communist states) and serve as a "People's Republic of Tyranny" strawman.

When you get a site with a disturbingly high quantity of people whose conceptions of politics are either informed by the most basic understanding of the political compass, TNO, or some other bullshit (and throw in the frankly creepy germany-wanking that ceaselessly occurs) and any genuine political commentary - let alone that regarding the intricacies of left-wing politics and theories - will be absolutely fucking dogshit. Considering how MT international roleplay will invariably, in a way, be marked by political commentary, IC or OOC, which is principally limited to the understanding of the player in question, the outcome seems bleak.

I feel like NS is actually pretty left-wing dominated compared to the rest of the internet. At the same time it's balanced out by some extremist right wing nuts that are literal unapologetic fascists.

Listening to UMB-76 at first, I expected some dumb shit to ensue. It's mostly just static, with a couple of names in Russian dropped somewhere at one point. It's an experience, I guess, especially in a class you have little to no work for.

To be honest, I'm not sure if they were going for grammar, or for worldbuilding quality when they spoke about "8th grade-tier". But if it's for grammar by itself, let me tell you this: I dread the day the Spaniards discover this place, and flood it with poorly-written (both on a worldbuilding AND grammar level) nations. Because, good lord, do we suck at speaking (and, in a more relevant note to this place, writing in) English.

Honestly I think it can be both, most nations with 8th grade tier writing both have little to no worldbuilding and shitty grammar, at least that's what I tend to see with the bad grammar nations. Good lord is it painful to read, it's also just sad sometimes how bad people's grammar gets on this website, you'd think people would have some kind of grasp of grammar before writing here.
