They are very advance but their society is more influenced by the 50's. They are pretty religious and there government is authoritarian. The continents have different leaders.

They let senior citizens serve in their nation's armed forces...then again, seeing the other technologies they have, maybe they have special roles or post-modern augmentations.

They have a hierarchical system with hair dye, with the highest class (royal family) having their hair bleached white, followed by the aristocrats (purple and silver), samurai (red), farmers (green), and chonin (blue), and the outcaste (no dye).

Following their revolutionary war where they conquered the continent, they renamed Mexico City to Nuevo Technochitlan. Strange that of all the names to change and all the new revolutionaries and socialists to honor they choose instead an ancient reactionary culture infamous for its brutality and bloodlust, but oh well.

Their service rifle is an M4, a distinctively OTL American gun, and is manufactured by that salty dog Chuck. In fact, most of their weaponry comes from the nation of The Chuck.
