The Second-in-command, Retznuq

Well, since Zevqir, the lunatic, is unavailable right now, its me who has to do the opinion things. So when I first saw you, I thought you were a robot for a moment. So you are a "gentleman knight" and "Warlord of Destruction"? These nicknames are only slightly less inconsistent then the ramblings of my fucking lunatic of a boss. According to the short profile, you just arrived one day and just... united everyone and conquered large parts of "old Hyrule." You then raided all those lands just like how we did it in the Scalmar Followers. Well, I guess I will now go into your expanded profile and hope to the dead gods that you aren't as insane as my "friend" and boss.

So lets go over to your personality since its the first best thing to read. So according to this, you are a brutish barbarian that sometimes likes to help people? Well, I can say it does sound better then what we have to currently deal with. It also says here that you like to drink, smoke, violence and doing as you please because you have the strenght to do these things. But sometimes you are a bit more gentlemanny? I don't really know how that works, but that actually sounds nice. You actually seem like a person that I can trust, unlike everyone around here. Now your history. So you are apperantly from some "Dark World", I don't know what that is, but it sounds ominous, almost sounds like more bullshit that Zevqir made up. Then some incidents with your timeline happens until they merge? Then you enter Hyrule to do your stuff of raiding I guess. You even reduced the "Beastlands" to wilderness. Then you entered old Hyrule and started a war with the Holy League, which was made from multiple warlord states which you are trying to win by playing the long game, which is funny, because it reminds me of how we and the Sqalmar Followers are currently losing the long game. Hard.

My final conclusion is that you are probably way better then what I have to deal with everyday, not that it says much, because the bar is so fucking low, it sinks into the ground. So yeah, that's all I have to say for now.

He clearly has to fix all the mess his crazy pal got his nation into. Collapse is imminent, and I feel bad for this dude, cuz shitstorm gonna be spectacular! I am pretty sure, there are several ways to handle this. Maybe, he could join some other space empire, that way, this will be empire's headache to fix all the mess. But gotta persuade the empire, that this is worthwhile and then again... reputation of his religion got hit hard by lunatic's reign and it will take alot to persuade the galactic community, that it's followers are not deranged terrorists after all this happened. Either way, he is right now in some serious zugzwang and it's only gonna get worse. Feel bad for this dude..."-Shawn Bjornson

The Second-in-command, Relznuq

Good news for you, Zevqir isn't here currently, so I will do the opinion forms. So no screeching about "Ultra-Galactica" for you. So, President Francisco Franco, you were apparently born on a place called "Spain" when it was still independent. You then witnessed "American" forces sweeping across your homeland. Seeing your own country being invaded must be pretty hard for you. I myself haven't really witnessed something like that... yet. You thought that the American genocide on your people was, so I'm assuming that you became president in the hopes of making this "America" a better place, because right now, this America doesn't sound like a very good country. I also noticed that you use the word "God" as a singular instead of a plural. I think its pretty interesting how your religion, Catholicism, only has one god.

So I'm reading further into your bio and I'm reading here that you joined the navy because of family tradition. Well, at least you voluntary chose to enter military service, I was just an unlucky conscript. But, anyways, I'm reading here that you fought in "WW1." I'm not familiar with what that means, but I'm assuming its a big war. So later on I see you using the phrase "WW2", so another big war must have started where you fought a naval battle against the "Japanese." Speaking about naval battles, I saw the big boat on the top of the bio, and I wonder how wet-naval battles are fought. I myself have never seen a boat before because... well... I have lived in space for my entire life pretty much. But, lets get back to your story, the part where you entered politics.

So you became a VP, which I assume is a bit like my position as vice-leader, or the second-in-command how its often called. You apparently had a tense relation with this guy with JFK because of your obsession with "God and the Navy" which I can kind of understand. Right now I have a bit of a tense relation with Zevqunt because of their obsession with... well... if you have spoken to them, you will understand. I also read here that you started working for your space program. I wonder what space is like for a person who had never left the atmosphere of their homeworld before. Probably similar for what a planet is like for me. But anyways, we are now at the part where you became president.

So that other guy, JFK, had been assassinated. In your inauguration you emphasized civil rights and God. I'm glad that you are using your religion to accomplish something good. Its something that I also want to do one day when the Followers inevitably collapses. I mean, you are starting things like a "War on Poverty" and the "Civil Rights Act" because you believe that every American is a child of God. That's good to see I think. Under your administration, your astronauts even landed on Mars for the first time. Pretty impressive considering the technology you had to do with, and also that this was way back before the humans started some of their terraforming programs on Mars. But I'm also reading here that your foreign policy was considered a bit less... good. In fact some of your foreign interventions made you more unpopular. Then you died in office... wait a minute. If you are dead, then who is reading this opinion form Are you going to read this from heaven? Because if you do, can you please explain to me what this "heaven" is that you are talking about. Is it like an Ultra-Galactica that still exists? Oh well, as long as your hawkish foreign policy won't turn you into another Zevqir. Well, that was it. Relznuq out.

However, I do see that your final intentions are quite nice, you know, the controlled collapse of your country instead of like what happened in... you know, everywhere else. I'm really curious on how much this friendship can last though, how much strain it can take before it snaps and you get hammer into head disease. Or is it bullet in brain disease? Or maybe Lazer in Lateral Ventricles disease? Also this is why we should not trust those questionable religious clubs. Call me a heretic but does it really matter what happens at the end? Everyone has so many different ideas on spirituality you might as well not listen to anyone, as long as it benefits everyone it's good. Good luck and get some sleep mate, your country needs you in your best form

Sanjuro: Your whole story proves the point of myself and all Marxists that religion is the opium of the people, it has caused untold amounts of suffering, a relic of the past that must be crushed by all means necessary- ouch!

"O! Inogo has a spirit, similar to our's. Like our First Leader Seth, he fought against the regime with true passion and fury worthy of many warriors. Bloodshed left a mark on Inogo, as well as it left a mark on some of our own revolutionaries, it's one thing to slay someone in battle... and execution is different... Some can't pull the trigger or swing an axe, some do so, but afterwards, their conscience makes them believe, this was a murder, no matter how vile was the executed person. Even if leader didn't execute anyone himself, it can still leave a mark. There are many of our revolution veterans still alive. Should he wish, he could talk to them about this.

I know, that he didn't stop the mass murder, that's one of the differences between Sky Reaver revolution and his. He had his reasons not to stop. And we had our reasons to stop them. In darkest hour, we realized, that if we kill innocents, then we are not better than our oppressors, and thus, we have created the Code of Honor. Inogo displayed great courage... and yet he flinched at that moment, when he could have at least tried. Wait dudes... now, I understand, why he has this scar. Sometimes, he might feel, that he is a coward, who didn't stop this not because this was a rational decision, but because fear got better of him. As for me, I know nothing about this moment. Stopping the slaughter of innocents was a right thing to do, but Sherechia is an example, that if we continued, then perhaps we wouldn't have turned into a wretched hive as we believed we would if we didn't stop.

I don't know what to think about this dark spot... It doesn't harm our friendship though. Alright, let's speak of it no more." -Shawn Bjornson

"I must object to your accusations Mr. President, I find your observations to be either ill-informed or biased. The state of the world in the present is not a pleasant one, the reactionaries of the Second Republic had done great harm to this country, but they were but one of many that had taken the world by storm and not every country had such a brave vanguard willing to promote resistance and cooperation in the face of such a threat.

I apologize for not standing idly by while totalitarian governments like Russia's Ukraine continue to occupy a country that they had repeatedly threatened and established with far right instigators, and I'll be damned if I allow the men and women i Korea fight alone against the most abhorrent incel ridden government on the planet, I'll die peacefully when the place my mother called home is liberated by the people. I assure you the United States does not destabilize so called democratic republics, I would humbly request you point out where I have attempted so, is it in relation to Mexico, I was not yet President when we began moving troops into the country and by all means it had turned into a chaotic mess that was affecting the border.

I can assure you that the current state of Central America isn't focused on spreading the revolution as much as it is giving much needed relieve to the people and building up it's infrastructure and helping the governments rebuild, but you cannot help them rebuild when the Russians or Chinese continue to destabilize the region while Brazil seeks to expand northwards, we are following a close template that we ourselves have taken to clean up our inner cities to help our neighbors so they finally move on from the past. As for the government we do not have a two party system anymore, and the only reason the Democratic Socialist had won the last three presidencies is because our policies had worked for better than attempting to return to a capitalist status quo or isolationist traditionalism of the conservatives. I am quite concerned that you think that we do not give the people voices, all we do is ensure that the elements that we failed to snuff out in the first civil war don't return to divide this nation again.

“As much as I commonly disregard the Eagle, along with their useless policies of acting as a sort of "world police" that nobody asked for, nobody wanted and nobody really supports... I suppose this one is slightly different given their vast empire. And by that I mean their vast reach and influence. Having actual sway in the world, it's rather curious, given they aren't trying to force EVERYONE to be like them, creating failed states in turn and letting the world burn due to their ignorance. Instead, they actually listen and try to favor the people's ideals! So maybe I like them A little. Yet, I doubt they could fix the mess of their own design in my world, seeing how Europe is shattered, NATO is falling apart, the US is isolating itself and China is running around unchecked while Russia has restored itself as a true power on the world stage. Perhaps, then, I was wrong... But only for their particular world. In mine? My own views still hold, with plenty of evidence to back up my words.

Zora Soldier of Hyrule, Ametu

"Ooh, time for a new adventure! I meant that sort of figuratively, of course. After all, this "Forum" of multi-dimensional people of so many different calibres; by the Goddesses' I would not be surprised if I see a Twilight Creature enter this place eventually, it is not actually something that I can access physically, can I? But, I have seen someone I know use this, the Princess-Sovereign and the Knight-General are some examples, of course and considering I am always looking to broaden my horizons on what places I could explore, this "Seventh Forum" seems absolutely perfect, does it not?

Now, this is my first time so please do forgive me if I might be a bit rusty at the whole "Forum etiquette" or whatever, okay? So, what is this one? Oh, we talk about the people above us! Sounds awesome!

And my first subject (TeeHee!) is this "Wealth Redistribution Logistical Affairs Officer", which... Let me think for a moment... Yep, you are a bandit! Well, I am not going to apologise for your bandit-y friends I have put into the ground throughout my life, but who knows? You might be a little better than those who just go completely after the weak, plunder and destroy only to get a little rich with items that you would have to sell off to people that might be aware of your deeds! Sorry, rambling. Do not mind me.

So, you are Azzakrat, "Cala" of the Deep Krakens, eh? I do not have the foggiest as to what a "Cala" is but for this instance I am just going to assume that you are a commander of sorts, is that okay? So, the Deep Krakens are less of a fighting force like those UN Peacekeepers or by the Goddesses! Hyrule and the standing Army and more like a legally sanctioned raider group? Though I guess calling it that only seems a little diminutive since you guys seem as well trained as special operatives. Take you, Azzakrat! You know six different languages, know a martial art known as Caleshar, and have the ability to effectively lead your squads into tough fights and manage logistics on the side. That is quite the portfolio. Like, me? Not tooting my own horn here but I would say that I could take on anyone in a swordfighting duel and have... Hmm, about a 90% ish chance to come out on top? Almost constant practice and my pretty militaristic parents and their teachings from a real young age; God... Oh, sorry; Hytia rest their souls would give that effect. But you know much more than me, so figurative

hat's off to you.
And... Well, I am happy to see that you treat
your merry
band of raiders with some real... Well, niceness? I am reading this and
it says something along the lines that you treat them like both your children and comrades-in-arms, which reminds me actually... You have children of your own! A bandit with children and a healthy life of nurturing them,
even if; like my parents you are teaching them early on the prospect of violence, of the skill to best opponents and whatever. I never thought I would see it. I know I am
supposed to be mortally opposed to you guys and the ways you work;
preying on innocent settlements and the like, but I am not sure that your Deep Krakens are truly like that
at this moment, and... Well, I actually respect
you quite a bit.
You know,
when I read
about you;
including that whole part about when out of battle, you are surprisingly soft spoken and cordial, maybe
even casual;
you actually
remind me a lot of... Well, myself! Say, are you also a little bit of an adrenaline

junkie as well?
We might have to check if we are distant
siblings at this point!

I joke, I joke!
But honestly, if we ever meet;
which in this crazy, crazy multiverse
anything is surprisingly possible, I would love to have a friendly swordfight with you; a Spar to start off with and then just get to know each other...

Bandit
shmandit, am I right? You might not even be the stereotypical description of one, so I am also interested in learning more about your organisation as well. Because it seems obvious
to me that you are not just lowlives...

Oh, and I meant that offer
seriously, Azzakrat! If you want, I could have a talk with some of my friends and see if they can not get me over to your world so we can talk :)

But, for now;
Goodbye...
And, I think that's it... Been fun talking! See you later, all!

First of all, skipping Aionios Rhomania for his uninspired one-liner...

Two, to the BN; the character I used is actually incomplete right now, though there is a lot on her if you want to do Ametu, which I would be really happy for! If you want a complete character though, go ahead and do Ametu's sister, Regent Avavu!

Oh, and as I usually say; I will /stillme any potential Generic, Uninspired or insultingly short post which might come my way. Not asking for an essay either, what I am asking for is at least a few lines, maybe a paragraph which shows to me you have taken care in your own post and understand the character you're writing about, at least a little bit.

But I'm sure you weren't thinking of summerposting anyway 😊

The Princessdom of Hyrule

The Princessdom of Hyrule. A fanfiction based on the Legend of Zelda :: Twilight Princess that takes place half a decade after the conclusion of the game. A new caste of Hyruleans, no less the newly built army resent the old Guard and Princess-Sovereign Zelda for the surrender of the realm to the Twilight and the weakness of Hyrule from invasion...

Meanwhile, the Zora worry greatly about the militarization of Hyrule, and the Goron less so due to the Economic stranglehold of the Rupee of which they have as leverage.
