I take back what I said about not starting to post a bunch again. Wasn't doing much else today so decided to just listen to some music. Probably will do the same tomorrow until my dad gets home with The Last of Us.

Which statement are you referring to? I must have missed it.

Earlier I said I haven't really posted much in this thread lately, and I probably won't start to for a few days because of The Last of Us....and then I started to post more....because I still have to wait for a while for The Last of Us anyway.

Apparently. Got nothing better to do, and even though earlier I wasn't really in the mood for listening to new music, I apparently suddenly got in the mood.

Ulver-Tomorrow Never Knows

Edit: This appears to be the more electronic album.

Ulver-Nowhere Catastrophe

Getting really sleepy, so probably last one. End of the album, anyway.

This songs weird. The song itself sounds pretty simple, though done in a more interesting way then a lot of songs, but the singing is very weird and unique.

You should strive to always be in the mood for music.

Omega Lithium - Dance With Me

Industrial metal is quite nice with female vocals.

It wasn't that I wasn't in the mood for music, I'm almost always in the mood for music when I'm at my computer. I just didn't want to look through anything new at the time.

I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

I'm back because of an annoying ass dream waking me up and despite the fact I feel tired I'm having a hard time going back to sleep again.....and falling asleep in the first place, apparently. Ugh and restlessness.
