They don't just rule lands in East Asia but also have many colonies in almost all of Africa, parts of Latin America, and the pacific. I'm going to assume that these areas where they believed "tropicals" to exist. Along with that they have a condominium in Central Asia and somehow a colony of Antarctica.

AAN: Basically, an incompetent ended the Regency, triggered a Civil War (that would end up killing 5 million people and cause harm for a period of time four times the number of years he himself reigned, and he was seen by the population, years later, as "an okay Emperor who would have had a successful rule if he thought just a little differently". Instead of becoming a republic at the end of the American Civil War, the decision was instead made to become a constitutional monarchy. This deeply split the Convention. Ultimately, the first Monarch of the Royal American Commonwealth was King Henry, who was crowned in 1789, shortly after George Washington became the first president of the RAC.

According to Gryphons, they are better than humans in pretty much every conceivable way.

They are an island country near Brazil, nominally still at war with Brazil that has a French Republican Calendar-like calendar. Allied with two nations and having nice Quaiit orbital shipyards that can produce lots of ships TMZ is a formidable force in the Solar System.

EastKekistan well being a Pan-Asia state has many large colonies in most of Africa and the pacific. These places are where they believe "Tropicals" live. They came to those places to among other things genocide the "tropicals" and to "modernize" the regions into what they believe to be the perfect society.

Despite having a population of only 589 million, they have a total (presumably active-duty) manpower level of 95 Million.

Compare this to the real world, which has a total combined active-duty force of only 20.5 Million. So they are certainly not someone to be pushed around.

Edit: AwCrap, Ninja'd >_<. Give me a sec.

AN: As from a brief look-over from their factbooks, their soldiers of the ancient Cat Empire appears to be a odd mixture of both Japanese-Style and Native American armor and weaponry. This unique blend of the two cultures makes some sense, given the Nekos rapid and sudden appearance in both Japan and the Caribbeans. I can imagine the ancient version of their species may have taken influence from both cultures.

They are a pseudo-Pan Asian country that predictably fails because NE Asia can not keep feeding SE Asia forever without getting pulled down...unlike the real successor of Republic of China, Kingdom of Great Joseon and the Empire of Japan, namely East Kekistan.
