All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

In my opinion it's a massive piece of shit. Like everything she's done. 2014 has been a sad year for music, with the sole exception of Judas Priest's Redeemer of Souls, and the upcoming Foo Fighters album. But at least it's better than 2013, apparently the worst year for the industry (quality-wise) in recent memory. Even with Black Sabbath getting back together.

"Learn To Fly" - Foo Fighters (remember when this was the only good song on the radio?)

Redeemer of Souls was rather disappointing.

And no, I don't remember. Two reasons: 1) I don't listen to radio and 2) that's not even a good song ☐

Neither do I. But I wasn't an adult in 1999. Oh well, can't blame them for playing something GOOD in light of the shit they usually had.

Every year is a great year for music to me, and I avoid the radio like the plague. There are many, many albums almost every year now that I love. But I really started with keeping track the last 2 years. Not sure how 2013 was the worst year in music industry history...

I don't even know that Foo Fighters song. But I barely pay any attention at all to the radio anymore. Even playfully picking on it got old.

Not sure how 2013 was the worst year in music industry history...

Let me give you a list...

Roar

One FUCKING FUCK THEM BASTARDS Direction

Every country song of that year, or most years prior (my dad will murder me for saying this, remind me not to mention it next time I see him)

Everything else Katy Perry did that year

Let It Go, which is actually a decent song but blown out of proportion by 13 year old girls who saw the movie on their first period and fell in love with the damn thing

All of Taylor Swift's material from that year

All the rap from that year (excluding the one that keeps going "Drink" which I can't remember but was actually not bad)

I think that should be good enough.

BUT...some good stuff came out of 2013, yet it's incredibly minor in comparison to the shitstorm:

Black Sabbath's 13 album

Get Lucky

Macklemore (don't judge, he's the only good rap artist at the moment)

The soundtrack to Pacific Rim

Almost all years I have, the average score is around 8.8-9.8.

Because I only get the good stuff

Since I don't listen to any of the "shit" you listed there, it wasn't a bad year. Or else I'd say that there's not a single good year in the music industry ever. The amount of good stuff is very slim every single year there has been. Forget the bad stuff, concentrate on good stuff and BOOM, there's no bad years, only good ones. Or judge the goodness of the year based on the bands you like, not the shit you hear on the radio/news/mass media.
