Opinion on the Ecclesiarch Ourouihya Khorkazhak

Status: Not Classified, for public's eye, if necessary

At last - some leader who holds views which are closer to my worldview and would understand! I think that my talking screen just turned green - color of happiness, which happens pretty rarely. Still, I am not that cheerful to hug someone, of course. Anyways, there's a whole lot of other stuff ahead to read, let's move.

Her parents left her to fend for herself? That sounds - oh, she's a dragon. Different species have different approach to raising their offspring, I almost forgot. It is good that despite the hardships she still managed to find a position of power. Hey, at least she seems to have been one of stricter ones, which meant that evils of democracy were stamped out.

It seems that as she gets older she doesn't shrink in size and become wrinkled like humans do, but just keeps increasing in size and strength instead - and she is about the size of a Sun? Damn, it is good that you don't need to eat, because otherwise you would need excessive amount of food to merely sustain yourself for one day. Her resistance to corrosive acids and acid being part of her breath weapon definitely make sense in context.

As I said before, I agree on most of her views, including the combination of fascism and communism, and most of the disagreements on policies are minor. That said, wasn't strasserism tied to antisemitism on one or other way? If so, then my Lehi allies would probably find that problematic. As for genocide, right now that is not the most appealing thing for me and SC, but perhaps we just have chewed so much that all of our teeth have fallen out.

"it is not very often i get the opportunity to put my opinion on an artificial leader rather than organic. but lets try this anyway... so, by from what i have seen, he chooses more extreme viewpoints with the exception of the environment. though it is nice to know that he has the interest of moving to renewable energy, which will be essential for one such as tom if fossil fuels were to run out and he has not found something suitable to keep him powered by then. i approve of his technological progress, though some of where it goes, not so much. interesting to see that he would just accept being "deplatformed" but again, tom is artificial, so he is not held back by emotions like organics would be. it would also be the first time i have ever known an artificial to be extremely religious. i would be most interested to know how that works out exactly. i could go on for more in regards to his ideologies, but i will keep it simple until i get the opportunity to communicate. but overall, he definitely interests me and i would like to know more from him directly" strange combination of monarchism and communism.

"A red, a brigand, a perfidious savage, a foreigner, a tyrannical beast, Sera is everything a leader is not supposed to be. I personally despise her policies, as in the long term they will only lead to stagnation and disunion. A hater of democracy like her must not be in power of the great nation of Platinia. However, I must applaud some of her achievements in eradicating inequality, though it interferes with nature. That's not important though, as if divine providence didn't want us to fuck around with it, it wouldn't have allowed it to exist in the first place. Her promotion of science is also laudable, one of the few things that I approve of. Her pacifism is not to my taste, as war is a great tool for technological development and population control, regardless of how brutal it may be. As much as I may dislike it, her devotion to the populace of Platinia is commendable, along with her pragmatism. However, the literal Red Empress is still commie, and that's enough for me to dislike her."

"This man is a ruthless warrior turned unfit apathetic, posing as a statesman in a very dangerous climate... and that is actually quite good and practical, I must admit. It is a good idea to leave your duties to those who are more experienced than you to govern more efficiently than you yourself can. In this case, leaving local governance to local people leads to a very democratic state of affairs that helps to preserve a local culture. By doing this, and by establishing himself as a very strong and crafty leader that establishes a deep loyalty toward himself, while establishing a strong national defense, while actually being quite hands-off, he is creating and protecting a free environment.

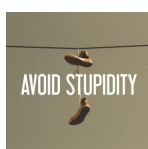

I... approve of him, in the sense that he is doing good. He himself may not have the best of intentions and may actually be quite alarming in his past actions, but the way in which he chooses to carry out his wishes happens to align with his people's welfare. I could hold an amiable conversation with him, or at least observe his practice of 'grilling'."

Oswald's Mood: Condemning

"I can only assume the title of 'High Executor' is somewhere tantamount to being a puppet of Sarathress—I do recognize he has and can achieve great things...only at the mercy of Sarathress and her iron will. And to simply describe Kal'Shazzar as the typical mad scientist, that is just an understatement of him and what he was, and still is, capable of doing in his field of profession. And it does scare me when I think of the possibilities mankind can achieve in similar fashion as Kal'Shazzar did and is still capable of doing."

"The 'Ascension' program already raised a red flag, and yet again, simply labelling him a lunatic is also a gross understatement. If I have to pray to God for the rest of my life on this world, my prayers are ones that I wish to not see the day people of all lands be inspired by the ludicrousness of the man they call Kal'Shazzar: 'Mad Genius...and Sarathress's ventriloquist puppet.'"

"She looks like a god-damned mulatto."

I would say that her policies show the faults of the New South, but really she is more of a carpetbagger, bringing her Southwest Libertarian politics to the South. I do agree with her anti-bureaucratic views and pro-gun views, but the rest of her policies are naïve attempts at maintaining 'laissez-faire' capitalism in the 21st century. They may be informed by a bastardized version of Jeffersonianism, but they lack the racial and class struggle that gives Jeffersonianism its teeth. The republic she wants is that of apathetic individuals living their lives 'free' from the state. There is no virtue in her policies, only libertine self-indulgence.

Also, a STG44 with .308 Winchester sounds heavy as fuck for an assault rifle. That's leaning towards LMG territory."

☐No, it is not the Confederate States of America. No, it's not the South either. SU stands for 'States and Unions'. The right acronym is RCAS. Please read the Factbook.☐

King: The...the staunch patriot with...racial prejudice who...was born on the anniversary of Caesar's death.
Queen: Oh, you mean like James Johnson?
King: Andrew Jacksson. Aaaaaannndrew. Aaaaaaaaaaaa...
Queen: Hush, hush. Go back to sleep.
King: ...ndrew Jaaaackson.
