They're a sort of distributed monarchy system, with seven separate 'kingdoms', each possessing two kings, all working with some sort of overking to govern the whole thing.

That's... 15 kings? Rather large number of chiefs going on there...

Not getting offended here but... 15 kings/queens in an empire that spans the entirety of a planet 3x the size of Earth is a lot? I would think that it was a very minimal amount, but I must be wrong. There are about 200 countries in the Earth, and for a world that is 3 times larger than that, there are only 7 kingdoms. Surely someone skipped something 🤔

An alternate history version of China in which the alliance between the Kuomintang and the Communist Party never broke down, eventually resulting in a federalized, democratic China. Though one of the world's strongest economies and an emerging superpower, China continues to suffer from high rates of income inequality, an overreaching and sometimes corrupt government, and cultural issues that continue to persist despite the efforts of many reformers over the decades. The NEAF can only support 7 divisions (roughly 140,000) which means around a third (a little more) of the NEAF standing forces are support. That opens the question of where they find personnel for the Navy, Rocket Corps, Coast Guard and Air Force which aren't divided by divisions.
