this morning been listening to a bit of beefheart - just listened to the great Her Eyes Are A Blue Million Miles wonderful.

Earlier i listened to a bit of bat chain puller - which i didn't initially like when i heard it - but i was in the bath and the cd happened to be set to repeat that song ad naseum. that might have be a bit irritating at first but then it reminded me of the cycle of windscreen wipers and i liked that. peculiar aint the word for it.

the susuration of household utilities and hvac. and the occasional conversations of feral cats, pigeonigions, corvid, rail and motor traffic, and fortunately even less common, (though not nearly less common enough) the incoherent stray and random vindictive of feral humans.

i do apply earphones as necessary to avoid unpleasant distraction, through them i consume the calming dulcet tonalities of musicians generous enough to share their creations gratis, whom have accumulated upon the drives of my magical computinbox. most are sanctified from the cacophony of the human voice, with exceptions of the folk music of folk who have not been born yet, and dwellers in fictional universes.

for the moment i am enjoying one of those all too brief intervals that are free of requiring such instrumentalities to obscure sounds less pleasant.

The West won the world not by the superiority of its ideas or values or religion ... but rather by its superiority in applying organized violence. Westerners often forget this fact; non-Westerners never do.

The most fundamental problem of politics is not the control of wickedness but the limitation of righteousness.

Since Lillorainen's geography is currently being overhauled a 'tiny' bit, most information on it posted before December 12, 2018, is not entirely reliable anymore. Until there's a new, proper factfile, everything you might need to know can be found here. Thank you. #RetconOfDoom (Very late update, 2020/08/30 - it's still going on ...)
