I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

This band really does have some of the best instrumental metal I've ever heard.

Dub Trio-Felicitacion

This one kinda has a post-rock feeling moment. The first song I heard by them. This was back in my day of not really caring for metal music, in any form, though I apparently still enjoyed things like Faith No More and Fantomas, for whatever reason, and other metal type of stuff. But for whatever reason I didn't care for this stuff when I first listened to them (Except this song), because I didn't like the heavy metal aspect of it.

Then I expanded my music taste, and now it is some of my favorite metal.
