I know a guy from Slovakia who just constantly spams images of monkeys and chimps along with the occasional amogus meme here and there. He managed to consistently spam a youtuber's DMs with monkey images for an entire year, he didn't know what Ohm's Law was even after it was explained to him over ten times and instead started kicking everyone from the discord voice call when they brought it up, and he also used to go around on VRChat larping as the Soviet Union to the point where he had a friend of his make a VRChat gulag map so he could re-enact his fantasies.

This is just a very small list of stupid things he's done, but there's countless examples of him spamming shit including the n word and cursed Brazilian memes. He also has some uhhh... unique quotes that range from bizarre such as "I wanna be John's dad" to hopelessly annoying such as when he recites every single SS13 round he plays down to the most trivial detail.

I'll never get tired of someone popping into the WA forum whenever a resolution they really didn't want to pass passes and they make a whole dramatic thread about why they're resigning from the WA (often times with the classic 'corrupted by liberals/commies/socialists' thing) because it's always someone who's joined in like the past two or so months and that's their first post here.

It's like...damn bro no one really cares.

I love it when they thought people would do the "Come back, please!" on them. And yes, I am totally aware of my hypocrisy when I said this!

A -1 on WA membership count is not that big of a deal.

The first step to a good idea is writing a bad idea, I always say- I mean, first drafts are always worse than the final product, and you're a good enough writer generally that by that final draft you'll probably have an interesting character, regardless of how bad the original concept might've seemed. Also, and not to be harsh to those people, but there are definitely characters who're likely to be worse written than yours by virtue of your underlying skill in writing, and their comparative lack.

Also, character-writing go brrr 🤪

Take 2 on being active, let's see how it goes!

Alt. of Hamatu

Late Medieval (Set 1239 CE). A Byzantine Successor State. Maybe Magical, Maybe Not. Has Some Indigenous Anatolian Influences Technically Religiously Syncretic (Byzantine Orthodox Saints - Ancient Anatolian Deities). Not Crusaders (Again, Not Crusaders). But Definitely Character-Oriented (Lord Trokondas/Princess Euphrosyne/Lady Bassaine)

I do be living and breathing characters. ^^

And yes, a trope from me: Ahh... lack of politics, I suppose? I don't really do a lot of it, ironically even when I am on this site. You can see the relative lack of parties/politics/governmental bits - perhaps the bare minimum of Valentine Z being an autocrat.

Don't think he uses leftypol since he has only ever been on Discord and Telegram and also it has been so long since I've worked with Blender and Unity that I forgot how to import models (I used to import gmod models).

I'm, trying to construct a bit of a dichotomy with my leader characters, specifically my Emperor in the sense he'll be a generally nice guy as a person who does some very not nice things as a ruler. Interesting direction I'm taking these characters I feel like

From what others have said I was actually going for more of a Tsar Nicholas II vibe
