Technically not a crime, but you probably wouldn't be able to publish it or sell it without incurring a large fine if the Office of Unconstitutional Activities deems its content too objectionable.

Depends on the items and the person, but the minimum punishment is 20 lashes from the zeruel strips in public followed by a fine equaling the original cost times 2.

Ownership of any form of smart phone is illegal in Kaywell and punished by the confiscation of said phone; further offenses are punished with increasing amounts of lashes from a zeruel strips.

Minor fine if the offender does not have a record of reactionary political behavior. Potential sentencing to either one month of house arrest with psychiatric treatment or fifteen days of imprisonment in a re-education facility if they have shown reactionary political behaviors in the past.

Graffiti and/or Vandalism generally?

Show Spoiler

by Parai Hambriven » Sun Jan 29, 2023 12:03 pm

Charges are generally pressed on a case-by-case basis, depending on whether or not the owner of the vandalized property would like them to be charged.

However, all defendants in such cases can be charged for public nuisance, which gets them a decently small fine and community service. Graffiti/vandalism of a government building can net you a pretty harsh fine and either a week or so in jail or a decently long stint on probation.

Sitting outside of a political candidate's rally and honking horns, screaming on megaphones, etc. in order to distract from the rally.

Considering how orderly and organized political rallies in Laka usually are (with protestors even taking time to clean up after themselves- no one wants to make the streets dirty after all) that'd usually result in a bobby arriving and attempting to politely remove the offender from the rally. Maybe they'll receive 15 days in local jail or small community service time- no more than that.

Said killdozer will be dismantled, it's materials smelted down, and repurposed for our own uses. Said person would be sentenced to up to 10 years in prison for possession of an illegal firearm (being a .50 calibre rifle) and will not be able to purchase firearms.

Considering the illegality of firearms as well as acceptance policies and whatnot, up to five years in state prison with a chance of parole as well as a fine of two thousand dollars for non-fatal shootings. For a fatal shooting, twenty-five years in federal prison without parole as well as psychiatric evaluation and a fine of four thousand dollars.

Destruction of government property during a protest.

Usually you'll be fined the full value of the property destroyed and if you can't pay it, you'll go to jail and do hard labour until you've earned enough to pay back what you owe.

We have a space agency.

Well, the person would have to bear the damage caused to the space agency and would also face 5 to 15 years in prison for depredation and destruction of someone else's property.
