I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

I adore Sparklehorse, just thought I'd throw that out there

I like his mellow stuff the most. Some of the more upbeat singing didn't do a lot for me, but overall I thought Sparklehorse was good.

Dean Blunt - Six

This guy has released one fantastic album and one great album this year, this is the great one

Did he release 2 albums this year?

Ahleuchatistas-Right Sock Brown, Red Leg Blue

I like pretty much all Sparklehorse but I agree that his slower, more mellow songs are probably better.
Yeah, and they're both very good, although they sound very, very similar to eachother.
