Depends on the state or territory, but generally, that's punishable by stiff fines and corporal punishment of some kind. In Cenko, it can lead to castor oil being poured down one's throat.

Speaking of that...pouring castor oil down someone's throat.

Distributist, pagan, history buff, civil libertarian, mostly republican, but willing to accept some monarchy as well being a big King Charles III stan. You've been warned. I'm also very skeptical and critical of Fourth Wave feminism. Delvian States is a confederal monarchy with autonomous principalities that often have their own laws. NS Policies aren't entirely reliable canon for that reason at least.

"Reflect, if you will, how you are to govern a people who think that they ought to be free and think that they are not. Your scheme yields no revenue. It yields nothing but discontent, disorder, and disobedience. And such is the state of America, that after wading up to your eyes in blood, you can only end just where you began....." - Edmund Burke

A handshake and slap on the shoulder. ☐ More seriously a four-digit fine.

Burning your country's flag.

Legal. You are not required to get permission from the government to build a spaceship from scratch and launch it into space.

Building a spaceship and flying into space is not illegal in the Commonwealth, but if you do not get permission or disobey orders from ATC then your pilot's license may be suspended for some time.

We... don't have laser T-Rexes in our country. Unless an animal is someone's property, an endangered species or out of hunting season, killing it is not criminalised.

Running a red light.

Impossible, as there is no method to sell the nation. If you tried to get a foreign power to install you as the leader, that's high treason. The punishment would be hanging.

Creating chemical weapons and blackmailing the government for a pardon and a billion dollars.

The first part of the text discusses the importance of understanding the context of a document. It emphasizes that without proper context, the meaning of the text can be lost or misinterpreted. This is particularly true when dealing with complex or technical subjects.

The second part of the text introduces a specific example of a document. It describes a document that contains a large amount of information, including a list of names and a detailed description of a process. The document is presented as a table, with the names in the first column and the descriptions in the second column.

The third part of the text discusses the challenges of working with such a document. It points out that the large amount of information can be overwhelming, and that it is difficult to find the specific information that is needed. This is where the 'Show Spoiler' button comes in. It allows the user to expand the document and see all the information at once, making it easier to find what is needed.

The fourth part of the text concludes by stating that the 'Show Spoiler' button is a useful tool for anyone who is working with a large document. It allows the user to see all the information at once, making it easier to find what is needed.

AAN: the government does not intervene in social media, though it does discourage the use of social media if you are under the age of 13. Rather than a crime, this is simply a failure of responsible parenthood.

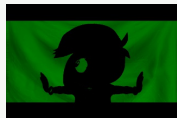

AN: rock throwing isn't a crime but if you hurt someone in the process, that's considered assault, so up to 5-10 years prison time. Extra fines/prison time if you gave them a stroke.

Pirating popular movies and selling them.

TEXAS - goodbye, everyone :)

AAN: Depends. If violence occurs, it is +33% of what the actual crime is (ie, if the crime is worth 10 years, if you did it to extort something 13 years and 4 months), as well as restitution to the victim(s) twice what was extorted as well as any medical/other costs caused by the extortion. If peaceful, 3 years (unless done on orders of an organized syndicate) and restitution equal to 1.5 times the value of what was extorted.
