Well you definitely did, because the primitive lifeforms in our borders are not part of the Empire, only observed. The only non-spacefaring people are the pre-sapients, who make like, 2 billions out of the 128.7 who live here. /skip

New Spiedska has is made of ten member-states, has a total population of 92.1 million people and a general area of 725.3 km<sup>2</sup>. Its history -at least the way this appears- essentially follows that of the US -including fighting against Germany in both World Wars and then fighting against the Soviet Union afterwards.

The country was founded by Sir Kim Hiram in 1624, who overthrew the Mfoewfwsk Government. They had a civil war in 1865, but quickly defeated the rebels. They fought with the Allies in an international war in the 1910s against the Axis, and also joined the Allies in the 1940s (unless this is a completely different timeline, WWI was between the Entente and Central Powers, not Allies and Axis). Another uprising took place in 1965, but was quelled in a massacre known as Black Saturday. In the 2010s, there was a war with Alcaida and EFCC, in which they were swiftly defeated. They also had economic depressions in 1935, 1968, and 2016.

An important point of divergence in their timeline was a more prominent support of federalism during the early Republican Era which culminated into the establishment of the Federation in 1928 -and as such negate the problems of the corrupt KMT or the cartoonishly evil CCP.

Hatsunia's historical archetype falls more into a warm-and-fluffy nation rather than the imperialism that dominated the nation throughout its history. It actually joined the allies in WW2 if only because it wasn't trying to own half of Asia... though little seems to be mentioned regarding its actual contribution during the war.

It is fairly possible that Rössler Kingsley and Christina Blair, two defectors who got some publicity while defecting from the United Kingdom to Haudegen, were in reality special agents donated to the Island Reich in order to train them in case the Soviets tried to take over.

First contact with a sapient extraterrestrial species occurred 36 years after the Sildorians became a unified planetary civilization. They were known as the Xuri, who were plant-like beings. This prompted the militarization of the Sildorian Empire with a xenophobic stance, followed by a short war in which the Xuri were defeated, and their home planet terraformed.
