I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

I like to listen many singers but Adele is one of my favorite as you can feel the pain of her heart in her eyes and song. While i listened her song i feel the depth of enchanted feeling that called love and feel the pain that she borne.

Huh, didn't realize Queen had so long of a song. I think the longest one I actually listened through the whole thing was about 49 minutes {Jesu song}, and before that it was like, 29 minutes or so. The rest of my long ones are anywhere from 10 minutes to 25. I know there's some that are about 70 to 75, but I've never actually fully listened to them....
