Sitz, member of expeditionary team "Kite Flyers"

Greetings. Hello Liam Liam "Three Barrel" Navarro. I like the middle name. Wonder what it stands for. Do these three barrels represent gun barrels, or like barrels to store liquid in it. Whatever, your name isn't very important. Let's talk about what is important, and that is your life and personality.

When you were young, you enrolled into some "Syndicalist funded" school. I don't know what a 'syndicalist' is, but it sounds like the word syndicate, which means a group with common interests. You also managed school with the help of your natural intelligence to compensate for your laziness. I myself never really went to school, I simply downloaded all the information I need from the Overmind.

When you went to university, you had to pass a thesis, and you did it by doing a bunch of really dangerous labors. And you of course accepted because... well... to be fair, I would probably have done the same, because doing twelve dangerous tasks sounds a lot more exciting then writing a paper. During your last labor, you lost an arm and got it replaced with a cybernetic one. I used to live in a civilization where everyone was mostly mechanical. Losing a bodypart wasn't a big deal, because you could replace it just as easily as you lost it. After that, you did freelance work, and got into some epic adventures, which sounds very fun. I don't know what kind of adventures, so I'm just going to assume that mine are epicer.

One day you got approached by a bunch of hooded figures who wanted you to replace their old leader Shawn. So you and Shawn did a bunch of challenges eventually culminating into a dual, that you won by being smarter... what kind of political system is this? I like it, but it also seems very inefficient and doesn't seem to actually encourage any skills that are good for leadership.

What I finally have to say about you is that you seem like a very fun person to hang out with, maybe even go on an adventure with. But your role as Overboss... Well it seems to be going better than the last one I think. You have some good policies, like the technogardens and the new training curriculum. I also like your attitude. Even in leadership, you still act like yourself.

"Well, I suppose I can appreciate the loyalty to his new home. I can understand the willingness to forge your own path, as well, even if the reason he did so isn't exactly, well, explained. Although, I must warn against the cult of the individual - it is an understandable desire for someone young to wish to strike out on their own, but alone we are vulnerable, and cannot survive in the cold void. A good society is tight-knitted, but not suffocating, and that is the kind of thing you should strive for: justice and goodness for all, for a new dawn for everyone. Perhaps his explorations will teach him about the stars, teach him about who he is within, then he can seek greater things." - Kyhron, Sovereign of Naveroth

Nemias has told me many stories about human kings. I found them to be dull and boring, and I find this man to be little more. However he seems to have a relationship with a Russian aristocrat which is said to strengthen the bond of the two nations. I haven't been told by Nemias about things like this, I always thought you were only allowed to marry someone from your nation. I should ask that religious brute more questions in the future. He seems to keep knowledge from me on purpose. It would be worth flying down to earth to have a conversation with this king, Asmund I think his name was? Strictly to see if there is anything I can learn from him to better navigate through human politics.- Zytriker King of the Globbon (Not really a leader but Nemias nor Canary wanted to give opinions.)

Feel free to do Any three of the Political leaders I have provided in my factbooks, Zytriker is a giant Dragon without much backstory so he should be the easiest one

President Harry Thomley

Who is this? Nemias Gregory?
What kind of name is that?
Wait? You used to be called Adam Gregory? Why did you change your name? All these questions, but its probably going to get answered anyway. So you grew up in a super-racist society where Africans are getting oppressed. I don't know why they do that. Africans are just as conscriptable as anyone else. After your mother was murdered, you took revenge on the person who did it. But because of that, you were send to a Liberian-like prison planet for African Americans...

Wait... hold on... you're an American... Do you have any idea what your people did to my country, my people... Of course you don't. But let me tell you. For an entire century, I have been waiting, rebuilding the Union so I can finally get my revenge for what the Americans have done to not only my country, but to the rest of the world. At first, I thought you were different from the rest, that while you were born in the United States, that exposure to the cultural climate of New Zogai made you... less bad then the average Yankie. But reading further along your factbook only reinforces the fact that Americans like you never change. You are a failed tyrant, who somehow got a second shot. That's why I see you as nothing more then Yank scum

This bishop fellow makes Nemias look like a national hero, only the weak rule their nations the way he does, no rights for the people is a sign that he isnt fit to rule. A captalist dictatorship in the way he runs it is a state doomed to fail. I can only hope the people see what is wrong with him being in power and his army gets rid of him and places the nation on the path to at least a republic that gives rights to those who live there they dont need to be political either. - Zytriker giving his opinion for a second time in hopes of someone not doing Nemias by himself

Ilyina Romanova; the Tsarina of Alaska

"A sincere pleasure, your majesty Alexandra. Skipping any talk that I sometimes give on the side before I delve into who I am looking at, because I... Well, I do not quite think it is needed in this instance - no offense to you at all - I should just say, it is an absolute pleasure to... Well, witness you. Truly, I think I will always have time for our - as in me and the Romanov Dynasty - friends in the United Kingdom, though if I am not getting this wrong you are from a certain U.K that I am not familiar with, right? As in, my own... Erm, world I guess has a lot of differences to yours, I would imagine... I suppose for example, from what I am familiar with, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland's current monarch is Queen Elizabeth II, and the Prime Minister is Theresa May, and the country certainly does not have any sovereignty over Hanover or the surrounding areas. But I digress. If I get too deep into exploring and iterating the probable many differences between my Earth and your Earth, I think I could potentially speak for hours, days even. Instead, I would be happy to explore who you are, your majesty.

Starting from the beginning, you were born in 1996 - what a coincidence by the way - surprisingly to me, not within the United Kingdom itself, or even a Commonwealth Member State, assuming that exists from where you come from, but in New York...

A private residence of Windsor indeed, but that's a fact which stands out to me a bit. Though I suppose it makes more sense when accounting who exactly your mother is. You wasn't always in New York or the United States of America though, even if the first few years of your life and, if I'm not too mistaken, a decent amount of your years in Education was spent there...

I think on that note, I am going to quickly ask a question if you don't mind. By all that is good, you don't even need to answer or pay it any heed if you care not to, because to be honest I'm simply pondering. You did indeed spend a lot of your life before Central Connecticut State University in the United Kingdom, right? I might be wrong on that, but if I am I do find it rather interesting that you chose to study in the United States of America rather than an institution in your own country, even for the reason your biography stated, but I won't pry about the reasons. And I just read about the sad loss of your Grandmother that occurred during the university days which put you in a bout of depression, halted your studies and even put you in involuntary rehab for a while... It. It is never good to lose a family member you are so close to. Unfortunately, I have personal knowledge of that... I-I am still not completely fine after Dad's disappearance and presumed passing six years ago, and now I have to look after both mother, who took it a lot worse than me and has now been suffering from many mental problems like cognitive impairment and even Sundown Syndrome and because Valya can't do it the best herself, also my young eight year old brother, Nicholas. It's really tough to get through that, but I'm glad you could.

Okay, so on a lighter note, you played football for many teams at a young age? Manchester United and Buckingham Football Club to name a couple, if I'm reading it correctly, and for that matter you did very well as well; historically good even. So, you definitely have my congratulations on that front. You've also done a lot more in terms of sports as well, like participating in marathons, not to mention the more unofficial activities you do like visiting gyms and other fitness institutions, walking and cycling and the like. You have me beat on that front by a long shot, your highness Alexandra! I think the most physically strenuous activity I have ever partook in is hiking as a byproduct of the camping and hunting I do sometimes, in honour of Father - God rest his soul - ... I wouldn't say I am unfit, but as I said, I simply can not compare to you. And before I fail to mention it, you have also been interested in modelling and fashion? You have done a lot, and I am probably forgetting or being unwittingly ignorant of much more you have done or even currently do. And speaking of that, I am truly sorry if there are important points of your biography that I am missing out on, your highness.

Carrying on, you have been more busy than me on other fronts too! Friendships and even romance is what I'm referring to now. On both fronts, I've personally not been very active about. I can count the amount of true friends I have with my fingers, and whilst... Whilst I do have my eyes set on someone I personally adore, nothing's official on that front and it would be my first ever romantic relationship to boot. Meanwhile, you have made friends with celebrities and royals alike, and you've even been in a few romantic relationships to date! The Crown Prince of Dubai, Jack Schlossberg and one Beth Reed is what I personally saw in your biography. Are you still with Beth, your highness? If so, I wish you all the luck and hope the love between the two of you stay strong! It must be hard to be Queen of England, Scotland and so many more and be in a relationship like that for... Well, do I even need to spell it out why? On that note, uhmm... Your highness, if you would be alright with it, - I know this is a bit forward, forgive me - would you be interested if we talked with one another a bit more? As in, privately? I guess why I ask is out of mostly curiosity but also, with what you have been through in terms of experience with romance, I... Erm, I wouldn't mind learning from you?

T:that was awkward, I am so sorry your highness.

I... I think moving on, I might as well let you know I also read about the various rough patches you've gone through in your life in terms of controversy and public interest. First of all, I'm sorry to hear you get hounded so much by the media at times to the point where you want to personally act in regulating that kind of thing, and specifically about what occurred during that Peterhead Incident. I know you didn't win the legal case regarding that event but I am glad you managed to find some kind of resolution, and about all the other controversies; I don't really know what to say about it because I'm not really that much of an educated, authoritative figure when it comes to things like that, especially considering that... Well, you're from a different world, strangely enough. Don't pay that specific conspiracy any mind though, if I can suggest anything. People and entities which spread rumours and unkindness about people based on their religion or other factors like that deserved to be ignored, after all.

And... Sorry to cut it off now, your highness Alexandra, but I have to cater to mother Valya very soon... It's been my pleasure learning about you, reading your biography and potentially even talking to you, it really has. From Empress to Queen, I do sincerely wish you, and the

the very best in the future."

Heya BU![*1]

I am sure you know what I am about to say now, you've probably seen me say it plenty of times before - not to be overly offensive of course, that's never, ever my intention! - but for safety's sake, I will say it again... I will be /stillme'ing surface level, one-line or otherwise ""trashy"" posts that come my way, just to let you know. And trust me, I don't want to make it seem like you HAVE to write an essay in response to me, a few lines or a paragraph that talk about the things I've written for my character (beyond the sidebar!) and has even a modicum of thoughtfulness put into it is completely fine by me!

I'm sure you don't even need me to tell you that anyways... So, I'm looking forward to your response, and most importantly, have fun responding! 😊

Oh, and the link to Ilyina's biography? It's available by clicking her name underneath her image which is coincidentally coloured like the flag of the later Russian Empire! (or rather, the Russian flag in general)

Alaska

The Tsardom of

Царство Аляски, or the Russian Empire lives on in it's old colony, Alaska after the conclusion of the Russian Revolution of 1917. Standing with it's allies against the Moscow Accord of Russia and it's alliance members, nevertheless world tensions dwindle and the people of Alaska grow ever more desensitised with the conservative status quo, and their insistence on clinging to a now redundant past.

I tend to belive, that I would definitely chafe, if I will have to live by all those rules and be bound by bunch of protocols and bloodline stuff... I doubt, that they would allow me to do even tenth of what I can do as the Overboss of Sky Reavers. Back here I can personally fight in wars side by side with my fellow warriors, love whoever the hell I want, wear whatever I like and smoke weed every day! As long as it doesn't prevent me from duing my part, it's fine. And I have no need to produce kids, I can be a childfree bachelor as much as I want. If I die... there is no need for heir, another legendary Sky Reaver shall take my place. While she has her free time and more than other folks in her position, I still belvie, she could have more of it. But, I also bet, that she can do things, I can't. Like... she can marry someone and create an alliance with this and then, perhaps inherit thome through line of succession and such and unite kingdoms. I can't politically marry for example, cuz we Reavers just don't belive in dynasties and royal bloodlines. Plus, I had to earn the title of the Overboss in a serie of hard challenges. It was my own decision. And she... she got her crown and all the challenges and responsibilities, that come with it by her birthright and wasn't exactly asked if she wants them or not. And I must say, that she seems to handle the pressure well, balancing work and life. Her climate restoration campaign is something, I like, as I do a similar thing back home, although for different reasons. I don't exactly belive, that climate change gonna kill us all and such, hell... it might be more of a natural thingy than man made. But that doesn't mean, that we shouldn't reduce pollution or switch to some other mean of gettin' energy... If she wants, we can exchange our data on envionmental improvement. She might have some ideas, we never though about and vice versa.

I remember, that she was somewhat critical of our approach and cause. Sadly, it's ture, that innocents sometimes get hurt or killed during our raids and attacks and no matter, how we try to reduce collateral damage, sometimes, it's absolutely impossible to remove it whatsoever. Still, it's far better than to let people suffer from genocidal tyrants, slavers or crooks, and there will be far more deaths and suffering if we let them continue. Reforms can take years or even decades... and are not guaranteed to work. I'll admit, that it would be interesting to debate the philosophy of our cause with her.

And yes, my papa did change his surname to Navarro, after playing Fallout 2, such a jolly dude! Yes, my life was stable on surface... but really, I had a share of weird experiences and adventures back in childhood... In school, beach, home, farm...

Either way, I hope, that one day, previous Tsar actually appears. Alive and well. There is yet still hope, as he is MIA and not KIA. May she someday meet him and live happily."-Overboss Liam Navarro

RESPONSE FROM THE MINISTER

"Overboss Liam, is it? An anarchist leading a nation. Surely a sight to behold. You had a... Bumpy life, it seems, full of academic challenges with a rather violent content that gave you a cool cybernetic arm, a position of supreme leadership won by competing in some sort of all out ubermilitary test against the previous overboss, that you eventually won, and even fighting experience overseas. Is that related to the mechanical alien invasion I heard had attacked Sky Reavers? Nonetheless, you seem to be dedicated to transforming Sky Reavers in a more streamlined, technological inclined state. Worthy goals I say, humanity will only be free when it embraces the value of steel and digital thought.

Just be careful, overboss, don't get too drunk on power."
- Mr. Chairman

Greetings. Hello Mr. O'Connor. You must be new here, because this is the first or second time that I have seen you here. Before I dive further in your bio, I have one question for you: What kind of place are you running?! Because to me, it seems like you are a minister of a totalitarian regime where happiness is mandatory. I'm not too familiar with human literature, but isn't that like one of the standard dystopian regimes that people write about? Anyways, lets get into in the story.

So the bio starts with threatening people who look into it without approval of the "President for Life." If I look into it, it will apparently damage my capacity to feel joy. Nice try, but even if you manage to damage the part of my bio-mechanical brain that allows me to feel joy, I can always repair it. From your notes, I can theorize that you don't have a very high opinion of the president.

As a child, you grew up in an area that was very xenophobic towards people like you. Reminds me of how some non-humans are treated in some places on Earth. One day you fled the city, and not long after that, your father murdered your mother. He was imprisoned but got out early due to good behavior, only to get killed by thugs. Luckily he was a "bastard" so his death wouldn't be sad.

When you were a student in robotics, you met the future president, which according to your notes, was easy to manipulate. Can the president read your notes, because if he can, then you better watch what you write.

Sitz, member of expeditionary team "Kite Flyers"

Sometime in 1977, either a solar eruption, or a nuclear attack by a rogue AI happened. Which led to the collapse of the United States and the reconstruction era. Instead of overt propaganda, you chose a more subtle approach, and used subliminal messages. Which apparently worked according to this highly propagandized bio. Good thing that you left your notes on it, makes it easier to differ between what actually happened and what you made up.

After you became Minister of State, you created an automated bureaucracy because you are a perfectionist. If its anything like the Overmind we have back in the Sitrimian Collective, then I would say that you made a right decision. I'm still getting used to the manual bureaucracy they have here on Earth.

You then decided to get new ministers, who all came from some research institute studying psychology. I don't know about you, but the word "psychocrat" sounds a bit disturbing to me. But apparently that's not the worst part. Because somehow, new graduates come out of that institute without someone ever being led in. Nobody knows why, but if I had a guess, I would say that they are robots. You were a student of robotics after all. You automated your work with AI. This country is even called Ex Machina. I'm even starting to think that the story of the solar eruption is made up because you don't want AI to get a bad name.

Now we are at the last section, your space program. You seem to be so dedicated to it, that you personally appoint everyone part of it from the ranks of the institute. You know, your loyal robotic followers. You even call them "sons of wired steel." This all screams to me that the Institute isn't a place to study psychology, but a secret robot factory. As someone with a robot body, all I have to say is: "keep your hands of me." I don't want to get reverse engineered so you can reach your goal of a "world made into your image" quicker.

Its 2027, almost twenty years ago, a storage-facility with mysterious machines was found on the moon. These machines seemed to have the ability to open portals to other dimensions. In response to this, the United Nations created the UNEEU, or United Nations Extra-Universal Exploration Unit to see what the multiverse has for them, exposing Earth to many opportunities and dangers.

"Okay, who do we have here? A robot?! Named Sitz? Nice name by the way. But why is a robot leading a sovereign state? I'm so confused! You know I'm impressed of the fact that there are nations out there where a robot is a leader, so he would be a very interesting character. Well, being a robot, I see that he naturally possesses a lot of stuff that robots would typically have, but then decided to be a freelancer. And clearly, I don't think that hasn't gone well with him, given the numerous accidents he had. This is one of the minuses of being a freelancer in my opinion. On the plus side, I see he became interested in some of the lesser-known parts of space, and this is good. And then there's his stint at UNEU, and his ascension to the Kite Flyers team. I'll say it again, I am impressed there are sovereign states run by robots. It's something that I do not see too much of anywhere else in the world. Also, some of the stuff he says... I don't really like them very much, especially regarding his statement on Earth. Overall, I think Sitz is a robot that has aspirations I do support, but I would not really see him as a great leader, given the past incidents he had. And the fact he is a robot leading a nation is just... impressive!"

"Ohoho! Don't you wear your heart on your sleeve? You claim to rule through strength but I can see the lie! Ruling your people with an iron fist as you do is the mark of weakness and cowardice. You waste energy on banning things you don't like and stifling contrary opinions. You take from your own people for your personal profit and murder any who would gainsay you. You are an eminent example of why we can never countenance a shift from our system. Were you to have attempted your little coup here, you would reach great heights indeed... before falling from those heights and being picked apart by ravens and souvenir salesmen. I name you: Coward, Backbiter, and Brigand. I may be a brigand myself, but never against my own. Were I ever to meet you in person, I would end you in person." -Cala Azzakrat Deep Kraken

For Imagination Animals:

"I am a firm believer in the power of turmoil. Turmoil, chaos, the looming threat of certain destruction - I find it can make great wonders. Myself and my Empire were forged from great chaos, great turmoil, from a rotting carcass being picked apart by carrion eaters; yet, I must also take note of the other side of the coin, as it were. Turmoil also creates great weakness - great moral deficiency - a corrupt mass that seeks only to damage those around it instead of rejuvenate.

"I am not a moral arbiter. I am not a militant ethicist who demands rigidity in belief and action. Yet all I see here is a man who deserves to be swept away, with the rest of the rubbish of history, without mercy by the inexorable march of time. His denials of innate freedoms, his needless callousness, his brash stupidity, all things that must be punished - all things I have seen and annihilated a billion times. If he can hear me now, let him take heed of this: there is no paradise for you, only a short few decades of suffering, then death; there is no almighty god up above who urges you to continue - there is only me." - Emperor Nicholas

"It seems there is at least some honour amongst thieves - if her willingness to lead from the front is not just a simple mad bloodlust. I suppose my opinion will be a little skewed, given I have a fond spot I can't seem to get rid of for those willing to put themselves in harm's way for their cause. I suppose it speaks to her convictions. Plus, she gained power by her own strength, at least vaguely similar to my own case.

"Time sorts the wheat from the chaff, the strong from the weak, the worthy from the unworthy. Time - as such - will decide which camp she is in. I hope, as much as I can hope, to see greater things from her in future. In truth, most of my disappointment comes from her occupation - piracy, criminality as a whole, is no place for a warrior, or a true leader, to thrive. I suppose she'll take that statement as some sort of challenge, 'meritocrat' that she is. She has been partially successful, in her own little corner of existence, time shall tell - and we shall see - if she can be greater." - Emperor Nicholas

"To be completely honest, I'm afraid for Nick. I know all of the possible paths his life can take. I know all the ways his story could end. I know everything about him because I used to be him.... I don't mean that literally and suppose my statement is more than a little melodramatic, but my point still remains. I was quite like him in my first life. In fact, it's kind of eerily the similarities our origin stories share but I digress.... I know what it's like to be like him. To do what he is doing. It ate away at my soul then and continues to do so to this day. So I say again, I'm afraid for him" -
