You're mistaken. The Church, which isn't established, is a tool for the civil service of the State.

Your State has some social attitudes which I'll describe politely as overlenient.

Native Representation discriminates against fully integrated individuals who have held citizenship for almost all of their lives, who are as patriotic as native born citizens and want to represent their nation in public office.

Euthanasia is not a right, it's an outrageous solution for the selfish and the weak to avoid pain and inconvenience.

Cannabis must never be legalised; where it has been legalised indicates a surrender to a vice which progressively destroys the brain, which destroys the capacity for rationality, which damages social relations, which causes misery, pain and death.

Regardless, you were responded to. Kindly wait for your turn.

World War II was a serious of global conflicts, not all of which are directly related.

The Mossad's Director may be the power behind the throne, and the agency has carried out over 500 confirmed assassinations or targeted killings, many more presumably still classified. In addition, it is not bound by law or the Constitution.

When Ilitu turned much of Kiriu into a wasteland, some of the merfolk tried to escape her wrath by going deeper into the sea. They were cursed for their disobedience and turned into the Arru, a disfigured subrace of merfolk who now presumably live as second-class citizens, though the social democratic Ocean Paradise party is campaigning to give them more rights.

That - as their name would also suggest - they are a totalitarian dictatorship. Interestingly, however, they are also a theocracy that is ruled by the Messiah, the sole supposedly divine ruler of the state of Israel.

Cities in Avram are significantly denser than most real-life counterparts, although they are less dense than Chinese cities. Highways exist underground to free up urban space, and suburban sprawl does not exist in Avram. There are designated urban green spaces as well, where construction does not take place.

Surprisingly, it's actually a geographical distinction scientists make in real life! Even today, under the ice, East and West Antarctica are pretty different in nature. They only appear similar right now because they're both hidden under one big monotonous ice sheet. East Antarctica is a highland continent, and the ice over it is very, very thick. West Antarctica is a low-lying archipelago bisected by a mountain range, and the ice over it is substantially less thick. Take away the ice, and you get two unique regions! 🇦🇲

Their leader's desire to help all the people of the world stems from his childhood trauma, from which he still hasn't fully recovered, though he never seeks professional help for this. Despite his poor social skills, he was able to climb up the political ladder thanks to the popularity of his policies. He's also an Armani model.

Khoronzon is, by any measure, the most powerful country in the world. However, their power is counteracted by the fact that nearly every other nation in the world, democratic or not, is effectively part of an anti-Khoronzon united front. Such nations include the European Federation, an outgrowth of the EU, and the Greater Eastern Union, a socialist East Asian nation roughly akin to a somewhat less authoritarian China. Most of the world remains more or less democratic, but the constant threat presented by Khoronzon means that a certain level of militarism and authoritarianism is present everywhere.

Communal Palaces are a staple of Cybusian culture. They were originally built by citizens as public shelters from the cold weather. Over time, they grew into vast public forums with a great variety of amenities, such as libraries, cinemas, and warm swimming pools. They also contain Mercerist shrines, government propaganda, and public dissections of creatures. Every major Cybusian city has at least one Communal Palace, and some of them have many more.

Each Antarctic apparently knows seven languages, English, French, Chinese, Hindi, Japanese, and Dravidian. They also use a Japanese style bow as a greeting and gesture of respect. Their largest party is the Antarctic National Congress, who played a large part in creating the society Antarctica is.

Partially inspired by the Third Odyssey mod for EU4, this nation is essentially a Byzantine successor state in South America that has fused together Ancient Greek Religion with Greek Orthodox Christianity. It mixes the aesthetic of Byzantium and Ancient Greece, with very open and liberal social values but with an Imperial Monarchy. NS stats are referenced but are not strictly followed to a T.
