Their language is very unique in that it combines different languages for different subjects, and it seems the author actually knows a few in real life. However profanity is allowed in any language. That's good, imagine having to learn some language just to scream....

The state ensigns and banners have stripes down the middle, but the military ones are just two fields. Is there a reason for that?

EDIT: I thought it was something like that, cool!

The military banners and ensigns are based off of the real-world Soviet equivalents. The state flag and Chairwoman's flag are my personal design.

They appear to be some sort of anarchist commune within a dilapidated space station.

What if Eastern Rome survived?

Basic Overview: Basically an althist where Basil II actually has decent successors who build on his achievements, resulting in a STRONK ERE that beats back the Sejuks and eventually does it's own reconquista in the Middle East. Also, The Crusades never happened, the Viking conquest of Britain succeeded, Genghis Khan died as a young prisoner in a tribal camp, Alexander Nevsky united Russia, and the HRE became a centralized state and destroyed France and the Normans.

Miranda-22 is a mostly-functional space station on a Kuiper belt object orbiting an otherwise unremarkable red dwarf star. It is not under the jurisdiction of any planetary or interstellar government, making it a rather anarchic place where the only real authority on the station is Port Manager Price. In short, it feels like the kind of place where a young, suicidally overconfident, future starship captain would learn some life lessons by starting a near-lethal knife fight in a bar, while for everyone else it's just another Tuesday afternoon.

AN: The analogue of Russia in their universe's iteration of the Cold War appears to be something called the "Spartacist Union," which, although no more information is available on the subject, sounds like it would make for a very unusual and interesting take on an alternate USSR.

As a lot of time had passed, some of the languages spoken in Antarctica had been slightly altered.

For instance, the Antarctic Dravidian language uses the Kannada script, while its vocabulary is a blend of 4 real-life Dravidian languages spoken in India: Kannada, Tamil, Malayalam, and Telugu.

It's worth noting that the local version of the Mandarin Chinese did away with tones completely.

US, Canada, obscure sci-fi plus weird sports = this.

The state is attempting to clone citizens and then indoctrinate them, using their identical nature to eliminate all individuality in the name of Neo-Maosism, and this is achieved through Bokanovsky's Process, which allows fertilized eggs to duplicate themselves, and Molotov's Technique, which speeds the development of said eggs.

In Cosmician military doctrine, due to their expendability and ease of production, drones are usually not elaborate machines that can take out an enemy with extreme precision, but may just be nothing more than simple unguided planes with a bunch of explosives strapped to them, as destroying a large number of enemies can be done as easily by one as with an advanced drone. This means the sky can be filled with millions and millions of drones that are each roughly headed into the direction of the enemy without needing advanced targeting systems.

They are, technically, Proud Sons of Carthage. This nation actually controls territory in the historical region of Carthage. For some reason, their flag does not use the triangle/stickman symbol of Old Carthage, which may have to do with their conversion to Christianity in the fourth century.

Somehow, the culture of the 1950s/1960s was preserved into the modern day despite the cultural factors creating that culture being removed and the pressures that led to its development mitigated.
