Necrophilia is not a crime and may or may not be socially acceptable here.

Petty theft (under 1000 USD, translate to your economy)

Hey, I exist (occasionally). I usually stick to the game (trading cards, answering issues, etc) but in the rare* occasion I feel like making a post, I'll be here. I also have tendencies to howl at the moon and can sniff out 'fendas from up to 30 miles away.

Necrophilic tendencies are non-actionable, desecrating/grave robbing a corpse is usually punished with a few months in prison(sentences vary). Of course, if the deceaseds will expressly allows an action, allowing it is construed as post-death consent (this is usually used to allow organ donation).

flipping off (middle finger gesture) an on-duty cop (political intent, if it makes a difference)

There are three types of local law enforcement within Angla Land, and the punishment varies.

Reeves

Ealdormen and thegns that hold land appoint reeves that organise a kind of neighbourhood watch. They have powers to keep the peace, and arrest suspected criminals. There is no crime against rude gestures towards them, but expect a stern talking to.

Retinues

The soldiers of an ealdorman's household will often be given policing responsibilities, especially so in the event of unrest, or to deal with serious crimes. The consequences for flipping them off vary, as disrespecting them can be seen as disrespecting the ealdorman they serve. On the lower end, fines. The most serious punishment, though, involved cutting the offender's middle finger off at the knuckle; however the last few times this occurred, the soldier responsible was forced to pay weregild as compensation.

Boroughwards

In chartered towns and cities, the hustings appoint boroughwards. These are the closest to what one would consider “police”, carrying out law enforcement, patrols, detective work, etc. This varies from city to city, but the typical punishment is a fine or community service of some form for a day. One city is noted for making offenders take a four week class on civic virtue.

Automatic nationalization and seizing of assets of the company, all workers being financially compensated 150,000 to 500,000 depending on the severity, company management being subject to maximum imprisonment (60 years) plus house arrest if needed for 100 years.

Depends on the manifestation. Disparaging the Padishah and Caliphe or his officers, or insulting the Eternal State is forbidden, but... if you quietly dissent without bothering anyone and show proper obedience to the Sultans law and his Imperial Police Forces when asked you' have nothing to fear.

Forming a fascist organisation and armed militia. (only bearing legal arms, if you have gun control imagine them bearing truncheons.)

Not illegal, however requires extended surveillance by the government. An openly fascist party, "Together", currently has several seats in the House of Assembly.

Beyond our jurisdiction, but the newspapers will call you a moron.

AN: not an offense per se, but usually refers to actions which involve a lot of illegal stuff. Murder is usually punished with five years in prison, and there is a petty fine for detonation of explosives without authorization in urban areas. Property owners of damaged items will seek a lot of compensation.

Not a crime, but if you cause a driver to crash you will be held responsible and possibly charged, if someone in the car dies you will be charged with involuntary manslaughter at minimum.

The main perpetrator may face a life sentence in a maximum-security prison, or execution via humane euthanasia in the worst cases, however, the associates that are working closely with the main perpetrator may face up to 5-10 years in prison, depending on the severity of the crime they have committed, and a fine of 8500R.
