Cover of the original by U2. Nowhere as good as the original, way too fast and the voice is a bit off. Still good for considering to cover this though.

Geto Boys – The World Is A Ghetto

It would've been even cooler if Bob Marley was alive and he did it.

Grandmaster Flash and the Furious Five - The Message

From: The Message (1982)
Genre: Old school hip hop, political hip hop, conscious hip hop

What do you think of old school hip hop, like this, Ancient Magma? ☐

What do you think of old school hip hop, like this, Ancient Magma? ☐

Indeed, I was thinking the same thing earlier.

Eh...musically, hip hop before the late 80s isn't my thing; reminds me too much of the disco-ish pop that was common back then, and I really dislike that period of music. ☐
Grandmaster Flash is classic though.

I thought it was good, lol.

I first heard of him being referenced in the Blondie song, "Rapture" (which is possibly the first hip hop song sung/rapped by a woman). I heard that song from a cover I just listened to. ☐

INXS - Never Tear Us Apart

From: Kick (1987)
Genre: Pop rock

Heard this on the radio this morning, was instantly reminded of it.

Common – I Used to Love H.E.R. [hearing every rhyme]

*I met this girl, when I was ten years old
And what I loved most she had so much soul*

Starts off like a love song...then at the end he says he's talking about hip hop, and the genius of the song explodes on your mind. ☐
