Nothing. And I find it sad that people always assume that you are listening to something. Music requires my full attention, and simply putting it in the background is degrading.

Not to say I don't do it, just that I don't do it all the time.

Well there's always some ambient noise, don't you suppose? Like my cat is currently purring in my right ear and the fan blowing in the background. Other than that, I would have to agree. ^_^ I've got nothing.

What position are you in to degrade this entire thread, hmmm?

I need music in every aspect in my life, no matter what I'm doing, I need music around me. I can keep my full attention on music while doing something else. Music is my life, my life has a soundtrack, and whatever track that endless soundtrack is on will be posted here.

A German parody of Born This Way, which I don't really understand too well, but find the video hilarious
