I think I'm in the minority in that I quite like that song. It's really catchy -

Death - Voice of the Soul

Probably one of my favourite instrumentals ever.

An Incarnation's Dream, Atheist.

Giving them another chance and not regretting it.

we, unlike the bourgeoisie, have nothing to lose and therefore our expression will be the only honest one, our words will be the only challenging ones and our art will be the one revolutionary expression. We need new noise and new voices and new canvases to become something more than the last poets of a useless generation.

I absolutely love how the soundtrack compliments the atmosphere of the game. Yume Nikki itself played a critical role in charging my artistic perspectives and interests. Had I not discovered it last summer, I don't know how different I would be.

I heard those singles like last week. I thought they're pretty good, but I don't know how I would rank 'em. I'd have to take another listen.

Refer to picture posted above for opinion on the song you are listening to Those guys have grown on me, though I still haven't listened to them a ton. And boy is that song name all too sadly true.

Sword and Sworcery Soundtrack-Jim Guthrie-Dark Flute

Good stuff. Some of the best soundtracks are from indie games. My dad a while back bought this indie game bundle for $15 (You could buy it for cheaper, but he spent more on purpose. The Minecraft creator spent like 16,000 just to donate money to indie games), and it came with 8 games and 5 soundtracks.
