Seriously, a single report is enough. If you see the pornspammer being reported, just let the mods handle it, however slow it might be. Pornspammers aren't known for subtlety, so of course they know.

I am most struck by people who have to make the drama queen line like, "Oh no! I saw a penis! Now I won't be able to see this site the way I used to!", giving even more trouble to the moderator who has to deal with both the pornspammer and bring the reporting thread back to order.

The funny thing about the pornspammer is... They know that there are recent restrictions on age of nations with regards to posting images. They actually waited and remembered to come back after they are of a certain pop/age.

Now that is dedication just to get a throwaway deleted.

I mean, there's a reason as to why the foe list exists; use it, then you won't have to see it at all.

It's a shame that almost no one sees the 'Report' link at the very bottom right corner of the pornospammer's puppets, so it'll spare their poor little ol' eyes from the nasty content of that pornospammer, and Moderation wouldn't be barraged by the same reports over and over with the same/recent links.

tbh, it does make some sense - this site's population is mostly sheltered children. So, of course they're gonna see a stock photo of a penis and go "AAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA, my life and innocence are ruined! How could NS allow such depravity???"

To be fair the pornspammer is posting worse things than just a penis. I grew up in the age of shock sites and the "Offended" page on Encyclopedia Dramatica and when I saw what they were posting in an unsuspecting thread I still thought "damn that's fucking nasty." But I also didn't lose my head over it.

Tbf even I forget that the report button on nation pages exists and I've been on this hellsite since 2008.

Most of the time if I want to report someone gameside, I just go to the GHR page and just paste the URL to their nation page and just add some context.

Definitely not needed for pornspammers though; all the context you need to give to the mods in a Getting Help report is 'nsfw spam' or just 'porn spam'.

I like the function: straightforward and efficient, and no need to copy and paste links to the porn spam and the pornspammer themselves.
