I actually find it interesting that you like metal and electronic music as favorites, because a lot of metalheads I see go on about how electronic music isn't "Real music".

I think whatever people want to do in a musical form is music, but yeah, people...

Apparently if you don't use guitars, drums, and so on as instruments it doesn't make it real anymore despite the fact there's plenty of extremely talented electronic bands that take a lot of work into their music.....and, you know, use electronic drum kits (I used one at a store and I totally wanted it), and so on....

It's childish musical elitism.

Lots of people who like metal enjoy aggrotech also. It gives me variety going between electronic and metal.
