Meh, I hate when a band has an interesting sounds but gets stale really fast. And not because they sound the same every album, but because one album has an interesting mix of, say, electronics and post-rock, but the post-rock isn't terribly exciting and it gets boring fast. I even accepted these guys experimenting entirely with electronics instead of only having subtle influences by it, and it seemed like they had that in preparation for an awesome album to mix the two since this one seemed to have both, but they didn't mix them in an exciting enough way...Or didn't have enough ideas, anyway.

And another band I enjoyed had a boring album last year...Though there was still some interesting aspects.

Same deal with Pelican..another band I have enjoyed but found to be kinda boring in their most recent album. 2 of them kinda just got boring with their style and 1 just failed at a new sound (In my mind)

Birdy-Wings

Scrobbled this song like 12 times and I don't even listen to Birdy much...

Will probably re-listen to her new album if it pops up in 3 days.

Speaking of singers I think are cute

The Album Leaf-Always For You

Cheesy lyrics, but for some reason I like this song despite the lyrics and vocal style I don't generally care for (Never really bad, just booring vocal style)

Bleh, I need "new" music for now. Too sleepy to do this flipping quickly through albums thing.

Terry S. Taylor-Klayman Shuffle (The Neverhood Soundtrack)

Didn't actually play this game a TON, but still loved it as a kid (And I mean when I was like 9 or 10). Soundtracks so weird and quirky.

I can relate.

Stevie Wonder - Too High

Holy hell, it's almost 5 AM...

Okay...bedtime after this.

Jesus Complex - Bone By Bone

I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

I'm shy as well. It can be annoying but at the same time I don't really mind it. Not nearly as bad as I used to be, though. People think shy and introverted means you don't like talking to people, but it really doesn't...There's a lot of annoying stereotypes about introverts...Always the case with minorities apparently. It just means you don't feel like being super talkative and upbeat. Just, in my case, shy, relaxed, calm, and not that talkative. It all seems to tie into my personality. Shyness I feel can fit right into my general not very talkative personality. But I used to be shy in a way that was just like...Completely wanting to stay away from people...But I was a kid, so eh. It's kinda weird. I see shy as being a problem sometimes (Makes my social interactions weird at times), but at the same time it's just kind of a weird trait that doesn't mean at all that you overall have problems talking with people...Because if I get on the right subjects, I really don't have problems...

...I'm gonna shut up now because I can't figure out how to explain what I'm trying to say.

Terry Scott Taylor-Klaymen's Theme

Another favorite...More quirky folky bluesy stuff.
