I don't really "follow" celebrities, but I do kinda sorta follow what they're doing here and there. And I RP way too much, and suck at RP character appearance descriptions, so I'm always using people from movies/shows I've watched for my characters appearances. But there are a fair amount of people I kinda follow to see what they're doing. But there's only certain ones I care enough about their projects to truly follow (Saoirse Ronan, the accent master and she's like only 20 years old) them, even if a lot I might think are good actors/actress'

Jesper Kyd-City of Rome

One of my all time favorite soundtrack songs. 9.5/10 for this song. I dunno why I love it so much, but I do.

Jesper Kyd-Flags of Rome

Read that for this song, they actually used real flags for this song and stomped them down on the ground for the loud sound, and the flapping noises you hear in the song are actually flag noises. Pretty awesome, really.

Well, I do kinda stalk artists in a sense to see what new music they come out with, but not overly so. Do the same with video game studios who have frequently released good games. I actually expect to maybe do that more later as I try and focus on more quality entertainment in every form of entertainment I can (Well, besides things like pool, skydiving, that stuff). Focus more on authors, video game companies, good movie studios (Not many defining good movie studios, really), specific actors who frequently do rolls I at least somewhat enjoy, such like that. Not that I can watch most of them 90% of the time but still...

And my interest goes beyond their music. I'm interested in their lives beyond what they do with their music. ☐

Lupe Fiasco - Thot 97

Eh, not that important to me. Though it is nice to see what they're doing here and there. Especially if they're very nice people who do good for the world.

I kinda stalk Elon Musk because he's a big part of massively changing our society right now, with all of his amazing companies he has created. And things just get better and better with him all the time.
